Kennedy Calls Advisers

Laos Crisis May Result In Boost Of U.S. Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called in his top military and diplomatic policymakers today amid reports he is planning to strengthen U.S. military power in Southeast Asia to meet a spreading crisis in Laos.

It was understood U.S. naval forces may be sent to the area in the next day or so.

Summoned to the White House for the midmorning conference on Laos were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

All returned Friday night from trips around the world. McNamara spent considerable time in Southeast Asia, where the new outbreak of fighting between Laos government forces and Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels is proving a source of great concern to the U.S. government.

Kennedy is reported considering strong measures to deal with the situation, assuming that diplomatic efforts to restore a year-long cease-fire in the embattled kingdom prove futile.

In the past the United States has avoided direct military intervention on behalf of the government forces. The question of U.S. military action in the country was recently reopened for review by the President.

The U.S. training and observation mission in Laos is reported to total only about 170 military men and 30 civilians. This is a very small group in comparison with approximately 5,000 Americans engaged in training and supporting government forces in South Viet Nam.

Both the United States and Britain have appealed to Moscow to join in halting the fighting by using its influence with Communist and pro-Communist leaders. So far the Soviet government has declined to commit itself, officials said.

The cease-fire was broken a week ago when pro-Communist forces began moving on the provincial capital of Nam Tha in northwest Laos. They captured that town, a stronghold of pro-Western government forces, and have continued to advance against rapidly retreating government troops. The State Department said Friday its information indicated government troops were fleeing into neighboring Thailand.

The changing military situation is regarded here as having a direct impact on the political prospects in Laos. The Communists now dominate more than two thirds of the country, according to U.S. official estimates, and pro-government forces less than one third.

Light Vote Is Forecast For Beaver

Turnout Of Half Or Less Seen Tuesday In Primary Ballot

Interest in Pennsylvania's primary is so light that political leaders estimate a vote of only 40 to 50 per cent Tuesday in Beaver County.

Beaver County's 93,745 eligible voters — 52,806 Democrats and 40,188 Republicans — will participate in the nomination of candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs and a U.S. Senator, statewide, and district congressman.

On the county front, candidates for the Pennsylvania Assembly will be nominated and state committee, and county committeemen and women will be elected.

Beaver County's 122 voting precincts will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

There will be two special elections. Chippewa Township residents will vote on whether or not to change its status from second to first class. Ambridge and South Heights will vote on a proposed school merger.

A larger percentage of Democrats will likely vote inasmuch as there is a five-way race for the nomination for assemblymen in the Second District. Additionally, interest centers on the election of committeemen and women since the party changed its method of electing a county chairman from a vote of the electorate - at - large to the committee members.

In the congressional race, Rep. Frank M. Clark of Bessemer, seeking his fifth term from the Beaver - Lawrence - Butler County 25th District, is expected to win hands down over his Democratic opponent, former Mayor Harry Pepper, Butler florist. Pepper has factional support in the three - county area.

Clark piled up his biggest margin of some 29,000 votes in the 1960 campaign in defeating Dr. Dred A. Obley, then of Ellwood City, and is the solid choice of the formidable three-county Democratic organization, observers said.

Democrats in the three - county district have pulled almost even in voter registration. The district was predominately Republican but in recent years its

Gift Taken By Official From Texan

Administration Hit As Probe Spreads In Financier Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightning from the Billie Sol Estes storm struck high up in the Kennedy Administration Friday night. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry R. Holleman resigned, saying he had accepted $1,000 from the indicted Texas financier.

In a letter delivered to President Kennedy, Holleman revealed the gift from Estes—whose wheeling and dealing with government farm programs and officials is being investigated by two congressional committees and by four grand juries in Texas.

He said he took the money from Estes, a friend for 10 years, because he was having trouble making ends meet on his government salary of $20,000 a year.

"He offered to help me out by a personal gift," said the 43-year-old Holleman. "I accepted this gift."

Holleman related that he accepted the money in January "before I knew anything about Mr. Estes' involvements." And, he added, "The gift has no connection with any of Mr. Estes' interests or my responsibilities. This was entirely a personal matter."

But, Holleman said in his letter to the President, "I realize at the same time, that the circumstances which have developed make it inevitable that this incident will be misunderstood and that it will be embarrassing to me personally. I am not going to let any of this embarrassment affect anyone else, particularly you and Secretary Goldberg (Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg)."

Goldberg announced the resignation had been accepted and said:

"It is regrettable that this has happened. Under the circumstances, Mr. Holleman has taken the proper course of action."

Holleman's resignation was the latest development in the swift-moving and sensational case involving Estes. The 37-year-old

Bickering Marks Economy Airing

The second meeting of City Council's municipal "economy" committee Friday night produced two hours of political bickering, but no tangible results.

With one GOP member absent, the membership last night wound up in a stand-off between two Republicans and two Democrats. The discussion ranged generally over familiar ground which the committee covered at its first meeting April 13.

AS THE session ended, Councilman Frank Duffy, chairman, said he will fix the next meeting date later. But it probably will not be within the next two weeks, he said, explaining that the members' work schedules would not allow a meeting next week and that he will be attending the state AFL-CIO convention in Cleveland the following week.

Attending last night were Duffy and Councilman Floyd Murray, both Democrats, and Councilmen Robert W. Sample Jr. and S. James Welch, Republicans. The third GOP member, Councilman George E. Willshaw, was unable to attend because of company business in Youngstown.

Although Duffy publicly had invited citizens and affected city employes to attend, the meeting drew an audience of only four. No municipal employes attended.

DUFFY indicated that he will accept a suggestion from the Republican members to invite city department heads formally to attend the next discussion to help answer questions about their employes' duties and departmental operations and budgets. He said he had expected affected department heads and employes to attend last night.

Sample and Welch suggested he send letters to the department heads requesting their attendance so the committee's decisions can be based on first-hand knowledge, not hearsay or rumor.

The committee's history goes back to late March and early April at the time Council was considering a new city income tax and the annual appropriation measure. When Duffy and Murray called for economies, particularly by eliminating some city jobs, Council authorized appointment of the five-man investigating committee.

AT ITS first meeting, the committee decided tentatively on elimination of the post of clerk-receptionist in Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's office, held by Mrs. Genevieve Weaver, a Democrat.

At that time, the committee decided upon further investigation before making a decision on any other posts.

Jobs which had been mentioned by Murray or Duffy for elimination also included those of Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark, Income Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson, Sewer Inspector Floyd E. Tice, Harold (Bus) Cartwright of the engineer's office, and the four "Meter Maids."

The assistant solicitor is paid $2,200; Wilkinson's salary is about $5,200; Tice draws $4,620, the combined salaries of the "Meter Maids" are $12,300 a year and Cartwright is one of several in the engineer's office paid out of a $4,000 appropriation for assistants.

AT THE OUTSET, the discussion last night centered on the assistant solicitor's post. And virtually all of the discussion was

Results Stand In Hancock's Vote Canvass

Official Tally Lists Changes In Totals For 7 Candidates

A canvass of ballots cast in Hancock County's primary Tuesday was completed Friday afternoon in New Cumberland with vote totals showing differences for seven candidates, but with results unchanged.

County commissioners and the staff of Clerk Donald G. Stewart finished the canvass in about six hours, confirming the winners of party nominations and school board races that were announced Wednesday.

County Vote Tally Due This Afternoon

The County Election Board expects to wind up its official canvass of ballots cast in Tuesday's primaries late this afternoon. The final count is expected to be certified to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's office under today's date.

The board started the canvass Thursday morning. The count apparently is slowed by tabulating ballots for precinct committee posts for Republican and Democratic parties and numerous special questions and issues.

Stewart reported the canvass revealed that only 8,661 cast ballots in the primary, although there were 21,071 eligible.

A total of 6,404 Democrats participated, or 47.4 per cent of the party registration of 13,498, while the Republican turnout was 26.6 per cent.

The GOP had 7,524 eligible for the primary, and only 2,257 actually showed up at the polls, the canvass showed.

The canvass changed vote totals of these seven candidates:

Arch A. Moore Jr., unopposed for Democratic nomination as 1st District congressman, losing one vote for a total of 2,147 received in Hancock County.

Charles Ihlenfeld of Wheeling, winner of the Democratic nomination for state senator, losing five votes in the county for 1,745 instead of 1,750.

John Camilli, a loser for the Democratic nomination as clerk of Circuit Court, dropping five votes for a total of 1,305.

Dr. James Fisher, a loser for Democratic nomination as county commissioner, dropping three votes for a total of 836.

Three non-partisan candidates for the Board of Education all gained votes.

John W. Boyd of Chester, who gained one of two seats on the board, received another vote for a new total of 2,836.

John Abrams of Chester gained two for a new total of 2,426, while Anthony LaNeve gained one for 1,671. There were no changes for the other candidates, J. Fred Allison, George Vukas and John Paul Jones. Jones won the second seat.

Reports Hint U.S. A-Test Of 'Subkiller'

Missile May Have Been Included In Thursday's Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may have fired a nuclear missile that the Navy claims can seek out and kill an enemy submarine within an eight-mile range.

The first underwater explosion of the current U.S. nuclear test series was one of two blasts detonated Thursday in the Pacific.

It followed the air burst of a more powerful nuclear device dropped from an airplane, believed to be a B52 bomber, in the vicinity of Christmas Island.

The two shots—the first one-day doubleheader of the Dominic series—were the eighth and ninth of the tests which began April 25.

The underwater burst was described as a low yield shot, meaning it had the explosive equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The Defense Department said only that it was fired in the eastern Pacific, several hundred miles from the closest land.

There have been reliable reports that either ASROC or SUBROC — antisubmarine weapons—would be tested with a nuclear charge.

ASROC is a 15-foot missile designed to be fired from destroyers, cruisers, or frigates. It already is operational and about 150 ships of the fleet are due to be armed with them within the next few years.

When fired, the 1,000-pound ASROC speeds through the air to the target area, then hits the water and homes in on enemy submarines by following their sounds. Experts say it is capable of destroying an enemy submarine at ranges up to about eight miles.

The SUBROC, another powerful weapon, still is in development.

It is a guided missile designed to be fired from a submerged submarine's torpedo tubes or from the surface. The missile travels through the air, then re-enters the water for the kill.

The Defense Department said it expects no hazard from radioactive contamination of fish or other sea life as a result of yesterday's underwater blast.

Spain Eyes Pay Hike In Labor Crisis

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco suddenly canceled a vacation trip to strike-torn Northern Spain today and remained in Madrid to deal with the nation's mounting labor troubles.

Informed sources said Franco changed his travel plans at the behest of his worried ministers in a 15-hour cabinet session on the labor crisis, one of the severest of his 25-year strongman rule.

A communique issued after the cabinet meeting said Franco and the ministers discussed proposals that would come close to meeting demands of 70,000 striking miners and industrial workers.

Franco was believed balking at bowing fully to the strikers' demands but was expected to order general wage readjustments throughout the country to head off a further spread of strikes.

The government sets most wages in Spain and strikes are officially banned. But the strikers—all but 8,000 of them in the Asturias coal mining regions and Bilgao industrial area—have been off the job as much as a month. They cite soaring living costs in their demands for the equivalent of about $2.10 a day, as compared to their present $1.40 to $1.60 a day.

Man In Truck Crash Enters City Hospital

Dump Vehicle Hits Pickup In Rear At Broadway Crossing

A 45-year-old East End man is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital, where he was admitted Friday after being X-rayed earlier in the day for injuries suffered in a collision at Broadway and W. 2nd St.

Woodrow W. Croy, 1012 Railroad St., was X-rayed at City Hospital about 10 a.m. yesterday for possible back and spine injuries received in the collision, and then returned later in the day and was admitted, hospital authorities said.

According to police, Croy was a passenger in a pickup truck operated by J. Hayden Marks, also of the Railroad St. address, which was struck in the rear by a Volino Brothers Co. dump truck operated by Joe Young, 31, of R. D. 3.

Marks told police he had halted at the foot of Broadway for a train and was hit in the rear by the dump truck.

Young reported he also had stopped for the train. As the traffic started to move, he also pulled out but Marks stopped again.

Ashtabula County Raps Lake-River Canal Plans

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Ashtabula County is against the proposed Lake Erie - to - Ohio River canal, but the city of Ashtabula favors it, representatives told a public hearing conducted by U.S. Army Engineers here Friday.

A partisan crowd of 250 in the Jefferson High School auditorium applauded anti - canal testimony presented before Col. Bert DeMelker, chief of the Pittsburgh District Corps of Engineers.

The engineers are making a study under a $500,000 feasibility survey on the merits of the proposed waterway. Hearings have been held previously in Youngstown and Pittsburgh.

The four-hour hearing produced 39 witnesses, 27 against the canal.

The Rev. David Clark, minister of the Austinburg Congregational Church, said sentimental testimony about fence rows, cemeteries and cow pastures seemed inadequate rebuttal to a $1 billion project.

He argued, however, that it was not up to the opponents to defend their homes, but to the proponents to prove that the canal would be "the right and proper use of the country's resources."

Austinburg's population of 1,307 would be driven to higher ground by the canal's most prominent feature, a 27-mile-long Grand River reservoir, it was claimed.

A report submitted by a city committee of the Ashtabula County Planning Commission said the reservoir would have this effect on the county:

—Wipe out $9,650,321 in real estate, personal property and public utilities tax valuation, with a total annual tax of $308,741.

—Displace 4,219 persons and eliminate 936 jobs.

—Destroy 390 farms with an acreage of 25,457 and a gross income in 1960 of $1,660,422.

Proponents included Nelson J. Pinney, president of the Pinney Dock & Transportation Co. in Ashtabula. He said he believes the project would help both Ashtabula and Conneaut ports on Lake Erie—as well as the entire area. One factor, he said, is the potential lower cost of power.

Bandit Trio Ties Couple, Son At Salem

SALEM, Ohio (AP) — Three masked and courteous robbers who broke into the home of John Martin, manager of a supermarket, failed in their persistent efforts to get into the store's safe and finally fled with $150 from Martin and his son, Robert, 28.

The gunmen entered the Martin home about midnight Friday, took Martin and his wife to the bedroom, tied them up and tried to get the combination to the safe at the A&P store managed by Martin.

"They went out of their way to be courteous," the Martins reported, but when efforts to get the combination were unsuccessful the three threatened them with physical harm to the Martins and their son, who meanwhile had been waylaid and tied up.

Martin gave them the keys to the store and the combination. While one man stood guard, the other two went to the store.

They were unable to open the safe, however, and made four or five trips to the store. Martin said. Police said the holdup men apparently were thwarted by the morning deliveries to the store on their last two visits.

Red Sympathizer Admits Russian Stay A 'Mistake'

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—A onetime Communist sympathizer disillusionedly started "picking up the pieces" today following an abortive move to the Soviet Union with his wife and twin sons.

David P. Johnson, 32, formerly of Philadelphia, arrived back in the United States Friday with his family. He admitted making an "exceptionally tragic mistake." It took him only a week to realize Soviet Russia wasn't the land of milk and honey he had thought, he said wearily.

A former $112-a-week timekeeper, Johnson said he has hopes of getting back his job with the Pennsylvania Railroad. The railroad said his case will be decided when all the facts are at hand.

Johnson and his pregnant wife, Joanne, 26, sold their home in Philadelphia after he quit his job last month. The family went on a tourist trip with the intention of staying.

But it took only "10 minutes to find out how wrong we were," he said. "The Soviet Union is an evil, bad thing. The average working man there is not making a decent week's pay. He is not eating well. Or if he is he is paying dearly for it. He is poorly housed. Even the hospitals are poor."

One of the reasons for wanting to move, Johnson said, was to obtain better medical care for 4-year-old Lindsey, a blue baby.

Johnson said he never has been a member of the Communist Party but he has supported Communist causes for about 10 years.

The Johnsons are staying with Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. John Zapenas. Mrs. Johnson's sister, Frances, wouldn't give her married name.

"She's too ashamed," said Mrs. Zapenas.

Hearings Due Toronto Pair

Men Await Charges In Irondale Thefts

Hearings were scheduled today before Jefferson County Judge Helen M. Huntsman in Toronto for two Toronto men being held in connection with a breaking and entering of Paisley Bros. grocery store in Irondale early Friday morning.

Charges of breaking and entering in the night season were to be filed and bonds set for Joseph Wasiloff, 26, and Richard Turick, 24, who were arrested by Village Constable Oliver Nicholson at 2:15 a. m. in Irondale.

The pair is expected to be bound over to the September term of the Jefferson County Grand Jury on the felony charges, Judge Huntsman said.

Constable Nicholson nabbed Turick after the Toronto man backed his car over an embankment in the village while Wasiloff still was inside the grocery store.

County sheriff's deputies said the pair had loaded a new television receiver worth $260 in the rear seat of their car, and two large pork loins and a box of bacon in the trunk. They had gathered other merchandise in boxes inside the store, deputies said.

Gift Taken By Official From Texan

Administration Hit As Probe Spreads In Financier Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightning from the Billie Sol Estes storm struck high up in the Kennedy Administration Friday night. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry R. Holleman resigned, saying he had accepted $1,000 from the indicted Texas financier.

In a letter delivered to President Kennedy, Holleman revealed the gift from Estes—whose wheeling and dealing with government farm programs and officials is being investigated by two congressional committees and by four grand juries in Texas.

He said he took the money from Estes, a friend for 10 years, because he was having trouble making ends meet on his government salary of $20,000 a year.

"He offered to help me out by a personal gift," said the 43-year-old Holleman. "I accepted this gift."

Holleman related that he accepted the money in January "before I knew anything about Mr. Estes' involvements." And, he added, "The gift has no connection with any of Mr. Estes' interests or my responsibilities. This was entirely a personal matter."

But, Holleman said in his letter to the President, "I realize at the same time, that the circumstances which have developed make it inevitable that this incident will be misunderstood and that it will be embarrassing to me personally. I am not going to let any of this embarrassment affect anyone else, particularly you and Secretary Goldberg (Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg)."

Goldberg announced the resignation had been accepted and said:

"It is regrettable that this has happened. Under the circumstances, Mr. Holleman has taken the proper course of action."

Holleman's resignation was the latest development in the swift-moving and sensational case involving Estes. The 37-year-old

Missile May Have Been Included In Thursday's Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may have fired a nuclear missile that the Navy claims can seek out and kill an enemy submarine within an eight-mile range.

The first underwater explosion of the current U.S. nuclear test series was one of two blasts detonated Thursday in the Pacific.

It followed the air burst of a more powerful nuclear device dropped from an airplane, believed to be a B52 bomber, in the vicinity of Christmas Island.

The two shots—the first one-day doubleheader of the Dominic series—were the eighth and ninth of the tests which began April 25.

The underwater burst was described as a low yield shot, meaning it had the explosive equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The Defense Department said only that it was fired in the eastern Pacific, several hundred miles from the closest land.

There have been reliable reports that either ASROC or SUBROC — antisubmarine weapons—would be tested with a nuclear charge.

ASROC is a 15-foot missile designed to be fired from destroyers, cruisers, or frigates. It already is operational and about 150 ships of the fleet are due to be armed with them within the next few years.

When fired, the 1,000-pound ASROC speeds through the air to the target area, then hits the water and homes in on enemy submarines by following their sounds. Experts say it is capable of destroying an enemy submarine at ranges up to about eight miles.

The SUBROC, another powerful weapon, still is in development.

It is a guided missile designed to be fired from a submerged submarine's torpedo tubes or from the surface. The missile travels through the air, then re-enters the water for the kill.

The Defense Department said it expects no hazard from radioactive contamination of fish or other sea life as a result of yesterday's underwater blast.

Spain Eyes Pay Hike In Labor Crisis

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco suddenly canceled a vacation trip to strike-torn Northern Spain today and remained in Madrid to deal with the nation's mounting labor troubles.

Informed sources said Franco changed his travel plans at the behest of his worried ministers in a 15-hour cabinet session on the labor crisis, one of the severest of his 25-year strongman rule.

A communique issued after the cabinet meeting said Franco and the ministers discussed proposals that would come close to meeting demands of 70,000 striking miners and industrial workers.

Franco was believed balking at bowing fully to the strikers' demands but was expected to order general wage readjustments throughout the country to head off a further spread of strikes.

The government sets most wages in Spain and strikes are officially banned. But the strikers —all but 8,000 of them in the Asturias coal mining regions and Bilgao industrial area—have been off the job as much as a month. They cite soaring living costs in their demands for the equivalent of about $2.10 a day, as compared to their present $1.40 to $1.60 a day.

Man In Truck Crash Enters City Hospital

A 45-year-old East End man is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital, where he was admitted Friday after being X-rayed earlier in the day for injuries suffered in a collision at Broadway and W. 2nd St.

Woodrow W. Croy, 1012 Railroad St., was X-rayed at City Hospital about 10 a.m. yesterday for possible back and spine injuries received in the collision, and then returned later in the day and was admitted, hospital authorities said.

According to police, Croy was a passenger in a pickup truck operated by J. Hayden Marks, also of the Railroad St. address, which was struck in the rear by a Volino Brothers Co. dump truck operated by Joe Young, 31, of R. D. 3.

Marks told police he had halted at the foot of Broadway for a train and was hit in the rear by the dump truck.

Young reported he also had stopped for the train. As the traffic started to move, he also pulled out but Marks stopped again.

Ashtabula County Raps Lake-River Canal Plans

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Ashtabula County is against the proposed Lake Erie - to - Ohio River canal, but the city of Ashtabula favors it, representatives told a public hearing conducted by U.S. Army Engineers here Friday.

A partisan crowd of 250 in the Jefferson High School auditorium applauded anti - canal testimony presented before Col. Bert DeMelker, chief of the Pittsburgh District Corps of Engineers.

The engineers are making a study under a $500,000 feasibility survey on the merits of the proposed waterway. Hearings have been held previously in Youngstown and Pittsburgh.

The four-hour hearing produced 39 witnesses, 27 against the canal.

The Rev. David Clark, minister of the Austinburg Congregational Church, said sentimental testimony about fence rows, cemeteries and cow pastures seemed inadequate rebuttal to a $1 billion project.

He argued, however, that it was not up to the opponents to defend their homes, but to the proponents to prove that the canal would be "the right and proper use of the country's resources."

Austinburg's population of 1,307 would be driven to higher ground by the canal's most prominent feature, a 27-mile-long Grand River reservoir, it was claimed.

A report submitted by a city committee of the Ashtabula County Planning Commission said the reservoir would have this effect on the county:

—Wipe out $9,650,321 in real estate, personal property and public utilities tax valuation, with a total annual tax of $308,741.

—Displace 4,219 persons and eliminate 936 jobs.

—Destroy 390 farms with an acreage of 25,457 and a gross income in 1960 of $1,660,422.

Proponents included Nelson J. Pinney, president of the Pinney Dock & Transportation Co. in Ashtabula. He said he believes the project would help both Ashtabula and Conneaut ports on Lake Erie—as well as the entire area. One factor, he said, is the potential lower cost of power.

Bandit Trio Ties Couple, Son At Salem

SALEM, Ohio (AP) — Three masked and courteous robbers who broke into the home of John Martin, manager of a supermarket, failed in their persistent efforts to get into the store's safe and finally fled with $150 from Martin and his son, Robert, 28.

The gunmen entered the Martin home about midnight Friday, took Martin and his wife to the bedroom, tied them up and tried to get the combination to the safe at the A&P store managed by Martin.

"They went out of their way to be courteous," the Martins reported, but when efforts to get the combination were unsuccessful the three threatened them with physical harm to the Martins and their son, who meanwhile had been waylaid and tied up.

Martin gave them the keys to the store and the combination. While one man stood guard, the other two went to the store.

They were unable to open the safe, however, and made four or five trips to the store, Martin said. Police said the holdup men apparently were thwarted by the morning deliveries to the store on their last two visits.

Returns With Family

Red Sympathizer Admits Russian Stay A 'Mistake'

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—A onetime Communist sympathizer disillusionedly started "picking up the pieces" today following an abortive move to the Soviet Union with his wife and twin sons.

David P. Johnson, 32, formerly of Philadelphia, arrived back in the United States Friday with his family. He admitted making an "exceptionally tragic mistake." It took him only a week to realize Soviet Russia wasn't the land of milk and honey he had thought, he said wearily.

A former $112-a-week timekeeper, Johnson said he has hopes of getting back his job with the Pennsylvania Railroad. The railroad said his case will be decided when all the facts are at hand.

Johnson and his pregnant wife, Joanne, 26, sold their home in Philadelphia after he quit his job last month. The family went on a tourist trip with the intention of staying.

But it took only "10 minutes to find out how wrong we were," he said. "The Soviet Union is an evil, bad thing. The average working man there is not making a decent week's pay. He is not eating well. Or if he is he is paying dearly for it. He is poorly housed. Even the hospitals are poor."

One of the reasons for wanting to move, Johnson said, was to obtain better medical care for 4-year-old Lindsey, a blue baby.

Johnson said he never has been a member of the Communist Party but he has supported Communist causes for about 10 years.

The Johnsons are staying with Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. John Zapenas. Mrs. Johnson's sister, Frances, wouldn't give her married name.

"She's too ashamed," said Mrs. Zapenas.

Men Await Charges In Irondale Thefts

Hearings were scheduled today before Jefferson County Judge Helen M. Huntsman in Toronto for two Toronto men being held in connection with a breaking and entering of Paisley Bros. grocery store in Irondale early Friday morning.

Charges of breaking and entering in the night season were to be filed and bonds set for Joseph Wasiloff, 26, and Richard Turick, 24, who were arrested by Village Constable Oliver Nicholson at 2:15 a. m. in Irondale.

The pair is expected to be bound over to the September term of the Jefferson County Grand Jury on the felony charges, Judge Huntsman said.

Constable Nicholson nabbed Turick after the Toronto man backed his car over an embankment in the village while Wasiloff still was inside the grocery store.

County sheriff's deputies said the pair had loaded a new television receiver worth $260 in the rear seat of their car, and two large pork loins and a box of bacon in the trunk. They had gathered other merchandise in boxes inside the store, deputies said.

Councilmen's 'Economy' Talk Futile

tually throughout, the two Republican councilmen were in a position of defending a Democrat —Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper — against two members of Cooper's own party. Clark, however, is a Republican.

Repeating an argument he used at the meeting April 14, Duffy said he investigated the need for an assistant by talking with nine members of the bar.

"Only one said Cooper needed help," he said. "Four said it should be a one-man job. One laughed out loud and referred to a 'political plum'."

Duffy added that "Cooper is the only solicitor who ever had an assistant."

"Where are these men who are opposed to his having an assistant?" Sample asked. "They're not here tonight."

Duffy replied that he obtained the opinions in confidence and promised not to reveal the attorney's names.

—:—

THEN SAMPLE read from the City Code sections outlining the duties of the solicitor and giving Cooper authority to name an assistant.

"I would like to hear personally from these people who object to the assistant," Sample said.

"The solicitor never had an assistant before," Duffy reiterated.

"The auditor has an assistant he never had before," Sample replied. "It's his daughter-in-law." Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate is a Democrat.

"You can't fire an elected official," Welch said. "Just about every solicitor in Ohio has an assistant to prepare cases and fill in during vacations and sickness. It's not out of the ordinary."

"Under Cooper, the city has paid fewer claims than at any other time," Sample interjected. "If there was no assistant and Cooper had to go to Columbus on a gas or a telephone rate case, who would prosecute the criminal cases?"

MURRAY SAID an acting solicitor could be named for brief absences, as an acting judge is appointed when Judge Samuel M. Chertoff is absent from Municipal Court.

"The people must be well satisfied with Cooper," Sample said. "He had been elected several times by a large majority. If you eliminate the assistant, you're going against the solicitor's recommendation. The ordinance gives him the right to have an assistant."

"A lot of jobs are created to pay political debts," Duffy replied. Then Duffy announced that he will bring in an ordinance to eliminate the assistant's post.

"That's your prerogative," Sample replied.

"I'd rather meet personally with the department heads and discuss these jobs with them," Welch said. He said he feels the committee should meet with officials "from the mayor on down."

—:—

THEN THE discussion turned to the "Meter Maid" posts. Duffy said he still is in favor of eliminating the four jobs and allowing police to check meters.

"Not as far as I'm concerned we won't do that," Welch retorted.

"If you don't think the chief of police is running that department right, you should complain to the mayor and the director," Sample said.

Later, the discussion returned to the "Meter Maids." Duffy said four or five fellow - workers in the pottery told him yesterday morning: " 'We're with you; get rid of the 'Meter Maids'."

"Where are those people tonight?" Sample asked.

Murray said the argument was previously that addition of the "Meter Maids" tightened enforcement and brought in more revenue. But he said the city also established off-street parking lots and raised the fees on some meters from 5 to 10 cents an hour after the jobs were created.

—:—

"I STILL THINK the police should check the meters," Duffy said.

"Did you talk to the chief about it?" Sample asked.

"No, I think it's up to the people," Duffy replied.

"Suppose you let the 'Meter Maids' go and suppose the revenue goes down the first year and goes down further the next year, what are you going to do?" Sample asked.

Duffy said he believes the city's parking problem will be eased "next year when the shopping center is built in Calcutta."

Duffy turned next to Tice's post as sewer inspector. Tice is a Republican.

"Some of his former restaurant patrons told me I was right in eliminating his job," Duffy said. "They said they always wondered when he did his work on the city job."

"One thing about his work in his restaurant, he took eight days off on vacation when he moved from E. 4ht St. to Market St.," Welch said. "He wasn't being paid by the city then."

EXPLAINING the post was created in 1957, Sample read the inspector's duties from the City Code.

Reiterating a charge he made at the meeting April 15, Murray declared Tice has not acted to prevent storm water from entering sanitary sewers. As a result, the sewage plant is flooded during heavy rains and must bypass raw sewage into the river because the inflow is so great it cannot be processed, he said.

"That's not the inspector's fault," Sample said. "It's Council's fault for not passing an ordinance to allow him to go onto private property and make inspections.

"Why didn't he notify Council he lacked authority?" Murray asked.

"He did; he sent several letters," Sample replied. But he conceded Tice did not notify the present Council.

THERE WAS NO decision on Tice's post and the discussion turned to the engineer's office.

Duffy asked "how much engineering should George Bloomgren perform for his $6,000 annual fee and $4,000 for assistants?" Bloomgren is retained on a consulting basis.

Murray suggested the committee write the engineer and ask him to present time sheets for his assistants for the last year. He suggested Council also obtain Tice's time sheets for the past year.

"If there's some way of saving the city money, I'm for it, but I'm not here to question anyone's integrity without proof," Sample said to Murray's suggestion. He said if the city did not have the services of Bloomgren and his staff it would have to pay $16,000 or $17,000 a year for a full-time engineer, plus the cost of his staff.

IN CONNECTION with Wilkinson's job, next in the discussion, Murray repeated a previous suggestion that City Treasurer Bert Dawson's post be made full-time so that he could supervise the tax office and eliminate the need for the commissioner's post.

Welch pointed out an elected official's salary or status cannot be changed during a term. It can only be changed to take effect at the beginning of a new term, he explained.

Murray said the treasurer's post could be made full-time, effective with the next term.

"You can change the salary, but you can't change the duties of the office," he said. "They are set by state law."

As the meeting drew to a close, Sample remarked that the city's tax rate is $34.20 per $1,000 property valuation, but the municipal government receives only $6.75 of the total. Of the $6.75, about $3.50 or $4 represents voted levies such as those for garbage collection and support of City Hospital and the fire department, he said. Schools receive $24 of each $34, he added.

"THIRTY-FOUR years ago, we ran the entire city for what it costs now to operate the fire department," Sample continued. He cited recent cutbacks in the work weeks of the fire and police departments.

"I think the department heads should watch their budgets more closely," Murray said.

As the meeting convened, only two men were in the audience. They were given an opportunity to speak.

Larry Finlay of Sophia St. read a clipping from a Youngstown newspaper concerning elimination of 16 city employes at New Castle, which resulted in a saving of 16 city employes at New Castle, which resulted in a saving of $10,000 in the first quarter of the year.

"I think your duty is plain to follow the lead of your chairman and impose certain economies and try to live within your budget without taxing the people," he said.

Banjamin Ziegler of Ohio Ave. read a 1952 newspaper clipping discussing the novel, "The Caine Mutiny." He compared Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin with Cap. Queeg, the Navy officer who was the central figure in the book.

Thundershowers Due As 'Sunday Weather'

"Sunday weather" is due tomorrow — showers, that is.

There have been few weekends without some rain and tomorrow will not be an exception, according to the Ohio weatherman, who said there will be scattered showers and thundershowers, although warmer.

There will be milder weather tonight with a low of only 48 to 55 degrees, contrasted to this morning's rather cool 43. Today's high was to range between 65 and 70 but sunny skies might send it higher.

"The solicitor never had an assistant before," Duffy reiterated.

"The auditor has an assistant he never had before," Sample replied. "It's his daughter-in-law." Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate is a Democrat.

"You can't fire an elected official," Welch said. "Just about every solicitor in Ohio has an assistant to prepare cases and fill in during vacations and sickness. It's not out of the ordinary."

"Under Cooper, the city has paid fewer claims than at any other time," Sample interjected. "If there was no assistant and Cooper had to go to Columbus on a gas or a telephone rate case, who would prosecute the criminal cases?"

MURRAY SAID an acting solicitor could be named for brief absences, as an acting judge is appointed when Judge Samuel M. Chertoff is absent from Municipal Court.

"The people must be well satisfied with Cooper," Sample said. "He had been elected several times by a large majority. If you eliminate the assistant, you're going against the solicitor's recommendation. The ordinance gives him the right to have an assistant."

"A lot of jobs are created to pay political debts," Duffy replied. Then Duffy announced that he will bring in an ordinance to eliminate the assistant's post.

"That's your prerogative," Sample replied.

"I'd rather meet personally with the department heads and discuss these jobs with them," Welch said. He said he feels the committee should meet with officials "from the mayor on down."

—:—

THEN THE discussion turned to the "Meter Maid" posts. Duffy said he still is in favor of eliminating the four jobs and allowing police to check meters.

"Not as far as I'm concerned we won't do that," Welch retorted.

"If you don't think the chief of police is running that department right, you should complain to the mayor and the director," Sample said.

Later, the discussion returned to the "Meter Maids." Duffy said four or five fellow - workers in the pottery told him yesterday morning: " 'We're with you; get rid of the 'Meter Maids'."

"Where are those people tonight?" Sample asked.

Murray said the argument was previously that addition of the "Meter Maids" tightened enforcement and brought in more revenue. But he said the city also established off-street parking lots and raised the fees on some meters from 5 to 10 cents an hour after the jobs were created.

—:—

"I STILL THINK the police should check the meters," Duffy said.

"Did you talk to the chief about it?" Sample asked.

"No, I think it's up to the people," Duffy replied.

"Suppose you let the 'Meter Maids' go and suppose the revenue goes down the first year and goes down further the next year, what are you going to do?" Sample asked.

Duffy said he believes the city's parking problem will be eased "next year when the shopping center is built in Calcutta."

Duffy turned next to Tice's post as sewer inspector. Tice is a Republican.

"Some of his former restaurant patrons told me I was right in eliminating his job," Duffy said. "They said they always wondered when he did his work on the city job."

"One thing about his work in his restaurant, he took eight days off on vacation when he moved from E. 4ht St. to Market St.," Welch said. "He wasn't being paid by the city then."

EXPLAINING the post was created in 1957, Sample read the inspector's duties from the City Code.

Reiterating a charge he made at the meeting April 15, Murray declared Tice has not acted to prevent storm water from entering sanitary sewers. As a result, the sewage plant is flooded during heavy rains and must bypass raw sewage into the river because the inflow is so great it cannot be processed, he said.

"That's not the inspector's fault," Sample said. "It's Council's fault for not passing an ordinance to allow him to go onto private property and make inspections.

"Why didn't he notify Council he lacked authority?" Murray asked.

"He did; he sent several letters," Sample replied. But he conceded Tice did not notify the present Council.

THERE WAS NO decision on Tice's post and the discussion turned to the engineer's office.

Duffy asked "how much engineering should George Bloomgren perform for his $6,000 annual fee and $4,000 for assistants?" Bloomgren is retained on a consulting basis.

Murray suggested the committee write the engineer and ask him to present time sheets for his assistants for the last year. He suggested Council also obtain Tice's time sheets for the past year.

"If there's some way of saving the city money, I'm for it, but I'm not here to question anyone's integrity without proof," Sample said to Murray's suggestion. He said if the city did not have the services of Bloomgren and his staff it would have to pay $16,000 or $17,000 a year for a ful-time engineer, plus the cost of his staff.

IN CONNECTION with Wilkinson's job, next in the discussion, Murray repeated a previous suggestion that City Treasurer Bert Dawson's post be made full-time so that he could supervise the tax office and eliminate the need for the commissioner's post.

Welch pointed out an elected official's salary or status cannot be changed during a term. It can only be changed to take effect at the beginning of a new term, he explained.

Murray said the treasurer's post could be made full-time, effective with the next term.

Sample pointed out the treasurer is paid $1,320 a year.

"You can change the salary, but you can't change the duties of the office," he said. "They are set by state law."

As the meeting drew to a close, Sample remarked that the city's tax rate is $34.20 per $1,000 property valuation, but the municipal government receives only $6.75 of the total. Of the $6.75, about $3.50 or $4 represents voted levies such as those for garbage collection and support of City Hospital and the fire department, he said. Schools receive $24 of each $34, he added.

"THIRTY-FOUR years ago, we ran the entire city for what it costs now to operate the fire department," Sample continued. He cited recent cutbacks in the work weeks of the fire and police departments.

"I think the department heads should watch their budgets more closely," Murray said.

As the meeting convened, only two men were in the audience. They were given an opportunity to speak.

Larry Finlay of Sophia St. read a clipping from a Youngstown newspaper concerning elimination of 16 city employes at New Castle, which resulted in a saving of 16 city employes at New Castle, which resulted in a saving of $10,000 in the first quarter of the year.

"I think your duty is plain to follow the lead of your chairman and impose certain economies and try to live within your budget without taxing the people," he said.

Banjamin Ziegler of Ohio Ave. read a 1952 newspaper clipping discussing the novel, "The Caine Mutiny." He compared Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin with Cap. Queeg, the Navy officer who was the central figure in the book.

Thundershowers Due As 'Sunday Weather'

"Sunday weather" is due tomorrow — showers, that is.

There have been few weekends without some rain and tomorrow will not be an exception, according to the Ohio weatherman, who said there will be scattered showers and thundershowers, although warmer.

There will be milder weather tonight with a low of only 48 to 55 degrees, contrasted to this morning's rather cool 43. Today's high was to range between 65 and 70 but sunny skies might send it higher.

There was only slight damage to the pickup and none to the dump truck, police said.

A truck also figured in a collision at 4:07 p. m. yesterday at E. 4th and Washington Sts.

It involved a truck of YELP Service, Inc., operated by Thomas E. Harley, 48, of the Y. & O. Rd., and a 1962 hardtop driven by Genevieve D. Wolf, 61, of 710 Broadway, Wellsville, police said. The left side of the auto was damaged.

Icenhower told police his vision was hampered by a parked truck as he pulled onto Pennsylvania Ave. Rayburn said he first saw Icenhower at almost the moment of impact.

Holleman

onetime Pecos farm boy built a huge financial empire on cut-rate sales of liquid fertilizer, government grain storage payments, cotton allotments and mortgages on allegedly nonexistent fertilizer tanks. He has since declared himself bankrupt.

A Texas court of inquiry turned up evidence that Democrat Estes made big profits from the government surplus grain and cotton programs. Some reports estimate that he received as much as $8 million in payments for storing surplus grain and used the money to build his overextended financial castle.

Republicans, seeing a possible chance to embarrass the administration, have accused the Democratically - controlled congressional committees of dragging their feet. The Republicans contend Estes got favored treatment from the Agriculture Department and demand hearings begin quickly.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has denied that Estes got favored treatment from the Agriculture Department, saying that the government investigation helped to expose Estes' operations.

However, Freeman acknowledged that the department was slow in investigating complaints about Estes' dealings—which the Agriculture Department now says were illegal—in cotton allotments. The agency has slapped marketing penalties of more than $500,000 against Estes for his cotton activities.

There were these other developments Friday in the case.

—An Agriculture Department aide, Carl Miller, who approved a $700,000 bond posted by Estes for storing government-owned surplus grain in his elevators, is being transferred to another job, a department spokesman disclosed.

—Senate investigators were reported to have turned up some former Estes employes willing to talk about the Texan's complicated business ventures.

In Texas, State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he was satisfied with a suicide verdict in the death last year of Henry H. Marshall, a U.S. Agriculture Department employe. There had been some conjecture Marshall's death was connected with the Estes case.

Holleman, a native of Arlie, Tex., and a former official of the AFL-CIO in Texas, is the only high Kennedy Administration official to have been sideswiped so far by the Estes case.

However, as a result of testimony before a Texas inquiry that Estes gave gifts of clothing to several Agriculture Department officials, one official resigned, another was fired and others are under investigation.

Holleman was appointed to the Labor Department last year after the Kennedy administration took office.

Holleman's name first flashed publicly into the Estes case earlier this week in reports that he had asked Estes to kick in money for a testimonial dinner Goldberg gave last January for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Three days ago Holleman disclosed in a statement he had discussed the dinner with several Texas friends, including Estes, without consulting Goldberg. He said he thought the Texans might like to contribute toward the costs of the party but dropped the matter because it was against Goldberg's policy.

In Friday's statement Holleman said Goldberg told him that "as a matter of firm principle he insisted on paying personally the costs of this and all such personal affairs."

The statement traced the relationship between Estes and Holleman to 1952 when Holleman was assistant to the executive secretary of the Texas Federation of Labor and Estes was engaged in a large scale farming operation in Pecos.

The contacts between Estes and Holleman were frequent during the 1960 campaign, in which Holleman was an assistant Democratic campaign director for Texas.

Board At Lisbon Eyes House For Office Purposes

LISBON — The use of a house on a recently purchased lot adjacent to the McKinley School as an administrative building is being considered by the Board of Education, Supt. Russell Armitage reported today.

Two properties have been acquired by the board at the school to provide playground areas because the previous play sites have been utilized for a new 14-room addition at the school.

Supt. Armitage said a full report on the negotiations and details of the property purchase will be issued when the contracts are signed, the board believing release of partial information would be "detrimental to the negotiations."

He said it will not be possible for the board to decide on use of the house on the one lot until it is turned over to the board June 1.

However, the possibility of using it for officers or storage of supplies and records will be considered, he said.

onetime Pecos farm boy built a huge financial empire on cut-rate sales of liquid fertilizer, government grain storage payments, cotton allotments and mortgages on allegedly nonexistent fertilizer tanks. He has since declared himself bankrupt.

A Texas court of inquiry turned up evidence that Democrat Estes made big profits from the government surplus grain and cotton programs. Some reports estimate that he received as much as $8 million in payments for storing surplus grain and used the money to build his overextended financial castle.

Republicans, seeing a possible chance to embarrass the administration, have accused the Democratically - controlled congressional committees of dragging their feet. The Republicans contend Estes got favored treatment from the Agriculture Department and demand hearings begin quickly.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has denied that Estes got favored treatment from the Agriculture Department, saying that the government investigation helped to expose Estes' operations.

However, Freeman acknowledged that the department was slow in investigating complaints about Estes' dealings—which the Agriculture Department now says were illegal—in cotton allotments. The agency has slapped marketing penalties of more than $500,000 against Estes for his cotton activities.

There were these other developments Friday in the case.

—An Agriculture Department aide, Carl Miller, who approved a $700,000 bond posted by Estes for storing government-owned surplus grain in his elevators, is being transferred to another job, a department spokesman disclosed.

—Senate investigators were reported to have turned up some former Estes employes willing to talk about the Texan's complicated business ventures.

In Texas, State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he was satisfied with a suicide verdict in the death last year of Henry H. Marshall, a U.S. Agriculture Department employe. There had been some conjecture Marshall's death was connected with the Estes case.

Holleman, a native of Arlie, Tex., and a former official of the AFL-CIO in Texas, is the only high Kennedy Administration official to have been sideswiped so far by the Estes case.

However, as a result of testimony before a Texas inquiry that Estes gave gifts of clothing to several Agriculture Department officials, one official resigned, another was fired and others are under investigation.

Holleman was appointed to the Labor Department last year after the Kennedy administration took office.

Holleman's name first flashed publicly into the Estes case earlier this week in reports that he had asked Estes to kick in money for a testimonial dinner Goldberg gave last January for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Three days ago Holleman disclosed in a statement he had discussed the dinner with several Texas friends, including Estes, without consulting Goldberg. Our Status Always Was Secure

Thanks to the image makers, the lady whose matchless service to humanity is celebrated on Mother's Day is so far from reality we never see her around any more.

The image is certainly not the modern matron who runs a household crammed full of gadgets and who raises her family according to Dr. Spock.

She is not the part-time chauffeur, fund raiser, committee server and doorbell ringer who is at the core of the sociological complex we call "modern civilization."

She is not the jobholder, the seeker after academic degrees, the doctor, lawyer, business executive and the paragon of energy who holds more than a third of the jobs now and is gunning for enough more to nail down 50 per cent before the turn of the next century.

Nor is she the shut-in household drudge whose horizon never gets higher than the flourish of a dust mop or the view from a stepladder. She is none of the traditional images of motherliness and by the same token she is none of the current images either.

What we honor is motherhood itself, the state of being a mother, regardless of surrounding and therefore ever-changing circumstances. Images don't count.

We honor the love and devotion of our mothers, our certainty of their loyalty to us through thick and thin, good and bad. We are humble in our thoughts of all they did for us and remorseful when we think of all we neglected to do for them.

They have forgiven us for our shortcomings long since, and for that we are grateful. After all, we couldn't all have been presidents of the United States anyway. Some of us had to stand aside to make room for greater men and women than we turned out to be.

Our mothers understood this. With them our status was always secure. We were their children. Nothing else ever mattered.

That's why we celebrate Mother's Day.

Bone Throwers On The Potomac

It seems odd that Treasury Secretary Dillon should concede that changes needed to be made in the same section of a tax bill that President Kennedy has defended, but that's the way the politics was running last Thursday.

Secretary Dillon also proposed changes in other parts of the tax bill not referred to by President Kennedy. All of his proposals came under the general headong of being merciful to taxpayers. A fundamental principle is at stake here.

The truth is that federal taxation has been at the point of diminishing returns for many years. The truth is that every tax move being made in Washington right now is an attempt to pluck more feathers off a flock of taxpaying geese that are now fighting for their lives, not just their feathers. Resistance to federal taxation is stiffening.

Ask any businessman, small or large, ask any taxpayer, small or large, what would do most to improve his confidence in an expanding economy and the answer is the same:

Reform the tax laws and keep the inevitable rise in federal spending in sound ratio to national growth. Make it easier to pay taxes by making the taxes more reasonable and federal income will rise accordingly.

Ask any politician in Washington, except a creeping socializer, what needs to be done to stimulate the national economy and the answer is the same:

Let the people and their enterprises keep more of their own money.

Ask any economist who has studied the fantastic growth of productivity in foreign countries and he will explain that this has been done by the intelligent use of tax regulations, giving enterprise the boost it needs. Socialist governments actually are being kinder to producers than the United States is.

Ask any economist who has pondered the failure of the American economy to pick up momentum as fast as required for a boom rate and one of the foremost reasons will be a patchwork tax system that hobbles and hampers enterprise and discourages investment.

When in the face of so much evidence of so many things wrong with the federal tax system key figures in the federal government and Congress have nothing better to offer than a few bare bones tossed to taxpayers confidence sags and drags. The worst of it is, these are taxpayers' bones — stripped of their own meat.

The Honor Students

Honor students are having their day again as scholastic achievement is recognized at East Liverpool and district high schools.

In contrast to the team play that marks most athletic events, scholastic achievement is an individual problem that normally takes place without fanfare. It represents hours and hours of hard work and a devotion to the task at hand.

This year's district "all-scholastic team" compares favorably with those of the past. The records speak for themselves. The students made the team on merit alone.

Congratulations to you all! As you continue your education, keep pounding the books. Outstanding grades have a way of paying dividends in one form or the other.

Wanted—Filter-Tip Stacks

Smoke means prosperity, residents of Midland long have recognized. And in times of depression or recession they have longed to see the tall stacks at the Crucible Steel Co. mill sending out the welcome signals which meant regular pay checks.

But thick, grit-laden smoke and fumes not only can be bothersome and irritating, but can pose a health hazard and deter home building and an influx of new residents to any community.

The development of effective methods of smoke control has curbed this troublesome condition in many industrial cities, but some production procedures offer special problems which require highly expensive or only partial solutions.

Even in East Liverpool and Salineville complaints in recent weeks have focused attention on the difficulty of smoke control.

Midland's borough Council and representatives of the steel firm are to get together shortly to further study the matter.

There will have to be a solution of some kind worked out if a health hazard exists. But in any event, it is hoped that a decision will be forthcoming which can be effective without curbing economic activity in any way.

Washington may spend $32 million to help education through TV. Congress seems to think that between shootings and sluggings there should be room for something beneficial to the human mind. Air waves have been educating the people through lessons in murder, safe crackings, police station routines, the howl of squad cars and curious court proceedings.

A student of TV could pass high intelligence test i fhe had a wide knowledge of frontier barroms, stagecoaches, town marshals, private eyes, gunmen and how to stick up three jewelry stores in a single afternoon, despite Broderick Crawford.

Now government is going all out to cooperate with all states in seeing that people get schooling in fields free from cowpokes, gun molls, convicts, trained animals, panel stars and Sioux Indians.

Now $32 million is a lot of money, but it's still a big question if it's enough to make culture win fight against the fast-draw, life west of the Pecos and all the scenes in which cops find a dead tycoon behind the sofa just as Perry Mason arrives.

Idea is wonderful. Pictures of crudest sort have helped hold interest of kids in educational subjects since era of Little Red Schoolhouse. Adults have been similarly aided.

Consequently there can be no doubt what the splendid photographic realism of TV can do for education. Anybody can understand how history will be simplified for the young if Cornwallis's surrender to Washington is portrayed "live."

Little Willie will develop more interest in arithmetic if the class begins with teacher bound and gagged but freed just in time to reach blackboard with piece of chalk.

Hugh Trevor-Roper, Oxford professor, opposed the degree. "I have great admiration for Chaplin as a comedian, but a degree should be a reward for service in academic or public life. A comedian doesn't qualify."

Izzat so? Great comedians can make life more tolerable for millions. This is a real sevice in public life. Like Chaplin or not for his politics, personal behavior, etc., he created a comic character that outlives all others on the screen. As the little tramp of the black derby, rags, battered shoes and cane he was terrific.

Kennedy Eyes New York Politics

By Victor Riesel

When John F. Kennedy's whirlwind caravan hits New York this weekend, its first stop, though not yet reported, will be at a labor rally in what used to be Hell's Kitchen. The President has promised to do this for his good friend David Dubinsky the ladies' garment workers leader. Together, they'll dedicate a multi-million dollar world-famed Pennsylvania Station.

Victor Riesel

From that moment in Hell's Kitchen the Kennedy caravan will go politicking through the big town's streets, through presidential birthday parties, Madison Square Garden and other overflow mass meetings. All this will be aimed at tearing holes in the Republican party in general and Nelson Rockefeller in particular.

But that won't be the only big political story of the weekend. Another will be developing quietly away from the wailing sirens. Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr. also is coming to town.

IT COULD be one of those moments the historians will be searching for after the next two elections. Friends of FDR Jr. hope his arrival in New York for a speech early in the weekend will be the beginning of his reentry into earthy New York politics. And Franklin Roosevelt, the second, has some mighty influential friends today. Not the least is JFK for whom he helped win the West Virginia primary away back there.

And there is Bob Kennedy. He has been reported making the rounds in New York urging that FDR Jr. be put somewhere on the state slate against Nelson Rockefeller.

There also is Lou Harris, one of the Kennedys' most brilliant and ubiquitous advisers. In fact, in recent years there never has been a critical moment when the Kennedys haven't turned to Mr. Harris, the political poll taker who has become the Jim Farley of our automated age.

Harris, who is little known nationally outside of professional political circles, therefore is one of the land's most influential men. He has rarely guessed wrong.

IT'S GENERALLY not known that Harris was close to FDR Jr. as long ago as 1954 when Franklin Jr. was still politically influential in New York State. Some say that's when Harris got his start.

Thus, though the 47-year-old, 6-foot-4 Roosevelt will slip quietly into town for his first speech here in years, he will not be without political strength.

His host that night will be Harold Moskovit, state president of the Affiliated Young Democrats.

They'll fill the Hotel Piccadilly grand ballroom for him. From there on out it will all depend on how the Kennedys and Mayor Wagner decide to try and smash the Rockefeller prestige in this fall's election.

And they want to smash it. Every president runs scared in New York State. Twice I heard Franklin Roosevelt Sr. tell a small group of us how worried he was over losing the state — though he never was in danger of running second.

John Kennedy is no exception. He's looking for a strong gubernatorial slate this year in the hope it can drive out Rockefeller in '62 so he'll be no problem in '64.

BUT THE DEMOCRATS have no gubernatorial candidate yet. They thought they had when insiders were talking of Robert Wagner for governor, Ralph Bunche for senator and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for lieut. governor or state attorney general. That would have given the slate Wagner and the Roosevelt touch. But the mayor refused to run.

This threw everything up for grabs. Roosevelt's friends began an inter-party boom. Some would like him in the top spot. He has maintained his Manhattan residence. He is a member of a law firm at the fashionable end of Madison Ave. His name still is magic on the sidewalks of New York. And when John Kennedy needed him to help take West Virginia, he showed up as a terrific campaigner.

Rockefeller has close ties with labor leaders in the state. That could change overnight if John Kennedy puts it on the line for his friend as his friend put it on the line for him.

JFK is expected to do just that for FDR Jr. If this combination wins, there will be a Roosevelt name in national politics again for quite a while.

Wiggling Tonight

By Truman Twill

I can't remember an event that has tickled me more than the blast that celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands.

What leaked out via the orchestra leader who set the beat for the high jinks pinned down a point I have been sharpening for years; namely, that royal personages are full of it, once you get behind the crown jewels and ermine.

Six reigning sovereigns attended the 48-hour party, staged on a luxury liner cruising around in the water of which the Dutch have so much. Some of them did the twist, which gives you an idea. Britain's Queen Elizabeth, who strikes me as a young woman who works hard to measure up to queenship specifications, was photographed while dancing with King Olav of Norway — laughing. Not smiling, laughing — the kind of laughing you'd expect if you told your dancing partner something worth laughing at. Like a joke.

The least high and mighty people anywhere are those who find it necessary to put on an official front when the occasion demands it. When the occasion is over and they can take down their hair, they take it down all the way. That's what I believed.

For years I have entertained myself with a flight of imagination that comes to a sharp focus on the peerless leader of some country — President De Gaulle of France, the President of the United States, or name your own peerless leader — sitting on the edge of the bed after a hard day at the helm. The guy is peeling off his socks.

He is saying half to himself, half to his sleepy spouse, "My old lady told me there'd be days like this, but I thought she was having the fidgets. It always looked to me as if she and my old man had it made in the shade in spades doubled and redoubled. But I missed the point. We got any beer in the frij?

"Thanks. Hey Mable. Say, I liked the way you put the spurs to that political punk needling you at dinner tonight, baby. These creeps get the idea they own us just because they let us live in the national doghouse. Then when we run away for a romp in the flowerbeds they pass laws to shorten our chains. Annnh! They give my belly the flips.

"What I was starting to say was, it ain't the hours, which are long, or the living conditions, which are horrible until we get out of sight in our own nest. It's acting dignified and restrained when you feel like giving somebody the old one-two-pow-right-in-the-kisser. You know what, peach blossom? It's near as bad as being one of the common, ordinary, slum-gullion people, that's what it is.

"We owe ourselves a blast for putting up with these featherheads. Who'd they get to take their guff if we up and got ourselves assassinated? Let's have an old-fashioned rally-round with seven kinds of meat and we'll get out the gold plate before these robbers melt it down for teeth. Have yourself an outfit made with a decolletage that will make old Rasputin think his trifocals are on upside down. How about it?

"Man, look at the toe of this sock. I was really wiggling tonight!"

Time For Change

Presidential News Conference Criticized

What happened in Washington last Wednesday shows clearly that the present formula for presidential news conferences ought to be abolished. It is a disservice to the president, a disservice to the press and a disservice to the country.

David Lawrence

Spur-of-the-moment answers to reporters' questions not only are sometimes misleading, but they do not constitute a balanced discussion of both sides of the issues on which the American people are entitled to information.

No president of the United States, moreover, ought to put himself in the position of sanctioning the use of vulgar epithets. President Kennedy was pressed for information about a remark he had made at a private session with his advisers. It had gotten into print, and he was asked to verify it. He should have disposed of the query with the comment that the reported statement was "inaccurate," or that no good could come from further discussion of it.

Better yet, the question could have been completely ignored.

A president has a right to decline to discuss any matter that he does not think is in the public interest. Now the net result of the President's performance on the televised press conference this week is further to embitter business against him.

The episode started with the printing in the New York Times on April 23 of a story of an informal consultation between the President and some of his advisers after Roger Blough, chairman of the board of the U.S. Steel Corp., had left the White House on April 10.

Mr. Blough had given the President a copy of the news release announcing a rise in steel prices.

APPARENTLY Mr. Kennedy was angered by this, and, when he met with his aides, he made a sharp comment which the New York Times on April 23 attributed to him as follows:

"My father always told me that all businessmen were—— —— but I never believed it till now."

The President was asked at the news conference last Wednesday to comment on the story. Here is what the tape-recorded transcript reports as his answer:

"Now, the only thing wrong with the statement was that as it appeared in the daily paper it indicated that he was critical of the business community—I think the phrase was 'All Businessmen.' That is obviously in error, because he was a businessman himself. He was critical of the steel men. He worked for a steel company himself. He was involved when he was a member of the Roosevelt administration in the '37 strike, and he formed an opinion which he imparted to me, and which I found appropriate that evening. But he confined it, and I would confine it. Obviously these generalizations as repeated are inaccurate, unfair. And he has been a businessman, and the business system has been very generous to him.

"But I felt at that time that we had not been treated altogether with frankness, and therefore I thought that his view had merit. But that's past, that's past. Now we are working together, I hope."

AN INFERENCE that can be drawn from this is that the President still feels the executives of the U.S. Steel Corp. did not deal frankly with him in the conferences prior to the recent announcement of the rise in steel prices, and hence still deserve the epithet.

Yet Mr. Kennedy had stated at his news conferences on April 11 and April 18 that no assurances had been given by nor asked of the steel companies with reference to a possible price rise.

Are the steel companies responsible then for any misinterpretation or wrong inferences by the President as to their attitude? Would this, in any event, have justified the use of profanity? Wouldn't it have been better to have ignored the question of the reporter or to have issued a statement in generalities, especially in view of the efforts the President has since made to placate businessmen and to give assurances that he is not antagonistic to them?

What was the good of affirming publicly that he had applied a vulgar epithet to the steel executives? The President had already on April 11 referred to them as "a tiny handful of steel executives whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility," and had charged that they had shown "utter contempt for the interests of 185 million Americans.

WRITTEN QUESTIONS submitted in advance, and prepared answers to most of the questions—as advocated for many years in these dispatches—would be a far more dignified and more effective way for a president of the United States to handle news conferences, especially since nowadays they are televised to the nation.

Meanwhile, the stock market continues to go steadily downward. Approximately $70 billion in values of stocks have been wiped out since March 15. This might, to a large extent, have been prevented if the President had been truly impartial in his public statements about labor-management problems.

Letters To The Editor

In the May 8 Review the headline on the bus terminal situation read as follows: Firms To Quit Bus Terminal For Diamond.

The headline should have read: Bus Terminal Moves Buses Out In Streets For Liquor Store.

How in the world are the people of this city going to get a Greyhound bus? I can just see several Greyhounds parking anywhere in any of the streets in East Liverpool, let alone the Diamond! Maybe the Greyhounds will quit coming to town.

It seems a shame that one of the few things that East Liverpool can be proud of, namely the most modern and best looking bus terminal around here, has to meet the kind of fate it has met. The drinking man will have to drink a lot more liquor to maintain his sense of well-being in this town. Otherwise he will be moving out!

JAMES FIRBER
109 W. Center Ln.

Editor's Note — Officials at the Bus Terminal report that the Greyhound Lines will continue to use the dock at the terminal, with only the city bus lines moving to the Diamond.

Our Status Always Was Secure

Thanks to the image makers, the lady whose matchless service to humanity is celebrated on Mother's Day is so far from reality we never see her around any more.

The image is certainly not the modern matron who runs a household crammed full of gadgets and who raises her family according to Dr. Spock.

She is not the part-time chauffeur, fund raiser, committee server and doorbell ringer who is at the core of the sociological complex we call "modern civilization."

She is not the jobholder, the seeker after academic degrees, the doctor, lawyer, business executive and the paragon of energy who holds more than a third of the jobs now and is gunning for enough more to nail down 50 per cent before the turn of the next century.

Nor is she the shut-in household drudge whose horizon never gets higher than the flourish of a dust mop or the view from a stepladder. She is none of the traditional images of motherliness and by the same token she is none of the current images either.

What we honor is motherhood itself, the state of being a mother, regardless of surrounding and therefore ever-changing circumstances. Images don't count.

And they want to smash it. Every president runs scared in New York State. Twice I heard Franklin Roosevelt Sr. tell a small group of us how worried he was over losing the state — though he never was in danger of running second.

John Kennedy is no exception. He's looking for a strong gubernatorial slate this year in the hope it can drive out Rockefeller in '62 so he'll be no problem in '64.

BUT THE DEMOCRATS have no gubernatorial candidate yet. They thought they had when insiders were talking of Robert Wagner for governor, Ralph Bunche for senator and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for lieut. governor or state attorney general. That would have given the slate Wagner and the Roosevelt touch. But the mayor refused to run.

This threw everything up for grabs. Roosevelt's friends began an inter-party boom. Some would like him in the top spot. He has maintained his Manhattan residence. He is a member of a law firm at the fashionable end of Madison Ave. His name still is magic on the sidewalks of New York. And when John Kennedy needed him to help take West Virginia, he showed up as a terrific campaigner.

Rockefeller has close ties with labor leaders in the state. That could change overnight if John Kennedy puts it on the line for his friend as his friend put it on the line for him.

JFK is expected to do just that for FDR Jr. If this combination wins, there will be a Roosevelt name in national politics again for quite a while.

Wiggling Tonight

By Truman Twill

I can't remember an event that has tickled me more than the blast that celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands.

What leaked out via the orchestra leader who set the beat for the high jinks pinned down a point I have been sharpening for years; namely, that royal personages are full of it, once you get behind the crown jewels and ermine.

Six reigning sovereigns attended the 48-hour party, staged on a luxury liner cruising around in the water of which the Dutch have so much. Some of them did the twist, which gives you an idea. Britain's Queen Elizabeth, who strikes me as a young woman who works hard to measure up to queenship specifications, was photographed while dancing with King Olav of Norway — laughing. Not smiling, laughing — the kind of laughing you'd expect if you told your dancing partner something worth laughing at. Like a joke.

The least high and mighty people anywhere are those who find it necessary to put on an official front when the occasion demands it. When the occasion is over and they can take down their hair, they take it down all the way. That's what I believed.

For years I have entertained myself with a flight of imagination that comes to a sharp focus on the peerless leader of some country — President De Gaulle of France, the President of the United States, or name your own peerless leader — sitting on the edge of the bed after a hard day at the helm. The guy is peeling off his socks.

He is saying half to himself, half to his sleepy spouse, "My old lady told me there'd be days like this, but I thought she was having the fidgets. It always looked to me as if she and my old man had it made in the shade in spades doubled and redoubled. But I missed the point. We got any beer in the frij?

"Thanks, Hey Mable. Say, I liked the way you put the spurs to that political punk needling you at dinner tonight, baby. These creeps get the idea they own us just because they let us live in the national doghouse. Then when we run away for a romp in the flowerbeds they pass laws to shorten our chains. Annnh! They give my belly the flips.

"What I was starting to say was, it ain't the hours, which are long, or the living conditions, which are horrible until we get out of sight in our own nest. It's acting dignified and restrained when you feel like giving somebody the old one-two-pow-right-in-the-kisser. You know what, peach blossom? It's near as bad as being one of the common, ordinary, slum-gullion people, that's what it is.

"We owe ourselves a blast for putting up with these featherheads. Who'd they get to take their guff if we up and got ourselves assassinated? Let's have an old-fashioned rally-round with seven kinds of meat and we'll get out the gold plate before these robbers melt it down for teeth. Have yourself an outfit made with a decolletage that will make old Rasputin think his trifocals are on upside down. How about it?

Time For Change

Presidential News Conference Criticized

What happened in Washington last Wednesday shows clearly that the present formula for presidential news conferences ought to be abolished. It is a disservice to the president, a disservice to the press and a disservice to the country.

David Lawrence

Spur-of-the-moment answers to reporters' questions not only are sometimes misleading, but they do not constitute a balanced discussion of both sides of the issues on which the American people are entitled to information.

No president of the United States, moreover, ought to put himself in the position of sanctioning the use of vulgar epithets. President Kennedy was pressed for information about a remark he had made at a private session with his advisers. It had gotten into print, and he was asked to verify it. He should have disposed of the query with the comment that the reported statement was "inaccurate," or that no good could come from further discussion of it.

Better yet, the question could have been completely ignored.

A president has a right to decline to discuss any matter that he does not think is in the public interest. Now the net result of the President's performance on the televised press conference this week is further to embitter business against him.

The episode started with the printing in the New York Times on April 23 of a story of an informal consultation between the President and some of his advisers after Roger Blough, chairman of the board of the U.S. Steel Corp., had left the White House on April 10.

Mr. Blough had given the President a copy of the news release announcing a rise in steel prices.

APPARENTLY Mr. Kennedy was angered by this, and, when he met with his aides, he made a sharp comment which the New York Times on April 23 attributed to him as follows:

"My father always told me that all businessmen were—— —— but I never believed it till now."

The President was asked at the news conference last Wednesday to comment on the story. Here is what the tape-recorded transcript reports as his answer:

"Now, the only thing wrong with the statement was that as it appeared in the daily paper it indicated that he was critical of the business community—I think the phrase was 'All Businessmen.' That is obviously in error, because he was a businessman himself. He was critical of the steel men. He worked for a steel company himself. He was involved when he was a member of the Roosevelt administration in the '37 strike, and he formed an opinion which he imparted to me, and which I found appropriate that evening. But he confined it, and I would confine it. Obviously these generalizations as repeated are inaccurate, unfair. And he has been a businessman, and the business system has been very generous to him.

"But I felt at that time that we had not been treated altogether with frankness, and therefore I thought that his view had merit. But that's past, that's past. Now we are working together, I hope."

AN INFERENCE that can be drawn from this is that the President still feels the executives of the U.S. Steel Corp. did not deal frankly with him in the conferences prior to the recent announcement of the rise in steel prices, and hence still deserve the epithet.

Yet Mr. Kennedy had stated at his news conferences on April 11 and April 18 that no assurances had been given by nor asked of the steel companies with reference to a possible price rise.

Are the steel companies responsible then for any misinterpretation or wrong inferences by the President as to their attitude? Would this, in any event, have justified the use of profanity? Wouldn't it have been better to have ignored the question of the reporter or to have issued a statement in generalities, especially in view of the efforts the President has since made to placate businessmen and to give assurances that he is not antagonistic to them?

What was the good of affirming publicly that he had applied a vulgar epithet to the steel executives? The President had already on April 11 referred to them as "a tiny handful of steel executives whose pursuit of private power and profit exceeds their sense of public responsibility," and had charged that they had shown "utter contempt for the interests of 185 million Americans.

WRITTEN QUESTIONS submitted in advance, and prepared answers to most of the questions—as advocated for many years in these dispatches—would be a far more dignified and more effective way for a president of the United States to handle news conferences, especially since nowadays they are televised to the nation.

Meanwhile, the stock market continues to go steadily downward. Approximately $70 billion in values of stocks have been wiped out since March 15. This might, to a large extent, have been prevented if the President had been truly impartial in his public statements about labor-management problems.

Letters To The Editor

In the May 8 Review the headline on the bus terminal situation read as follows: Firms To Quit Bus Terminal For Diamond.

The headline should have read: Bus Terminal Moves Buses Out In Streets For Liquor Store.

How in the world are the people of this city going to get a Greyhound bus? I can just see several Greyhounds parking anywhere in any of the streets in East Liverpool, let alone the Diamond! Maybe the Greyhounds will quit coming to town.

It seems a shame that one of the few things that East Liverpool can be proud of, namely the most modern and best looking bus terminal around here, has to meet the kind of fate it has met. The drinking man will have to drink a lot more liquor to maintain his sense of well-being in this town. Otherwise he will be moving out!

JAMES FIRBER
109 W. Center Ln.

Editor's Note — Officials at the Bus Terminal report that the Greyhound Lines will continue to use the dock at the terminal, with only the city bus lines moving to the Diamond.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

When A Friend Dies

A longtime family friend died a few weeks ago and I've been doing some thinking. For many years he was a real part of our lives. He was always there, always to be depended upon. He was an institution in our existence. Then suddenly he was no more. God took him. And in familiar ways we shall not see him again. Such an occurrence makes one think.

DR. PEALE

A loss like this is, of course, sad and melancholy, but it is only part of the story. We lose our friends, and yet we have not lost them. Though the physical form is gone, good friends always remain in memory and in this way they continue permanently in our fellowship. As Tennyson said, "I am part of all that I have inextricably interwoven into our lfie's fabric.

IT WAS 20 years ago when my wife and I bought a little farm in Dutchess County, New York. Since we lived in New York City we had to have a farmer and among those who applied for the job was Ralph Rockwell.

He was of good solid Connecticut people and had worked hard all his life. I began asking him about his habits and ideals, and he said, "Don't worry — I'm your kind of folks." Guess he meant that he wuld see eye-to-eye and be on the same beam, so to speak. I liked him at once for he was a real person.

From then on he "used the place as if it were his own", as he put it. And I soon found out that he knew what to do and how to do it. He said to me, "You do the preaching and I'll do the farming." I wasn't too sure how much I did know about preaching, but was sure about how little I knew about farming — so I was glad to let it stand his way.

Some people say he produced the best beef in Dutchess County and to his credit, a neighbor once remarked: "This is the best manicured farm in the neighborhood."

All our family loved and respected "Mr. Rockwell". He helped our children grow up and there is much of his honest character in their young lives. He had a heart as big as all outdoors (though he often tried futilely to conceal it behind an assumed gruffness). And he was always kind not only to children but to animals.

WE HAD a dog named Lassie, a springer spaniel. Lassie came to us when she was a month old and for 13 years was a beloved member of the family. When she began to grow old — "just like ourselves" said Mr. Rockwell — he made a special bed for her by the stove in the tool house.

He watched over her when she became partially blind and so stiff of joints that she could walk only with difficulty. But she could still wag her tail in the same old excited manner and look at you with big loving eyes.

Mr. Rockwell would stroke her head and she would nuzzle against his legs.. They understood each other.

Then one night Lassie failed to appear. Long after dark with flashlight in hand Mr. Rockwell combed the fields and walked up and down the roads. It was not until late the next day that she came crawling, slowly and painfully, back to the barn. She hadn't been hurt — she had just given out and apparently had been lying helplessly in the tall grass.

LASSIE DIED at his feet. He took her in his arms and tenderly buried her up in the orchard. Tears came to his eyes and his voice broke when he told us about it.

"She just grew old, crippled and feeble, just as we will in our time. I buried her under an apple tree, the one that has the prettiest blossoms in the springtime so we will never forget her."

I have always thought that kindness to people and to animals reveals something pretty fine about a man.

So it is that when a friend dies or thoughts turn back to some of the touching human things that endeared him to us. Shakespeare must have been thinking along this line when he wrote that bit of advice: "Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

How right he was. Friends are so very important to our lives—we are reminded of this when suddenly they go from us. Let us be thankful for each of them.

The Power Of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

The Apostles—IV

PAUL

"... we walk by faith, not by sight."

Paul, the great missionary of Christ, lived his faith. This philosophy carried him over parched lands and stormy seas, preaching and teaching. His zeal sustained him during his years of imprisonment by the Romans, during which time he wrote a number of his Epistles. He wrote over half the books in the New Testament, and always the core of his letters was the power and glory of God.

When Paul felt the end of his life was near, he wrote in his second letter to Timothy, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

When A Friend Dies

A longtime family friend died a few weeks ago and I've been doing some thinking. For many years he was a real part of our lives. He was always there, always to be depended upon. He was an institution in our existence. Then suddenly he was no more. God took him. And in familiar ways we shall not see him again. Such an occurrence makes one think.

DR. PEALE

A loss like this is, of course, sad and melancholy, but it is only part of the story. We lose our friends, and yet we have not lost them. Though the physical form is gone, good friends always remain in memory and in this way they continue permanently in our fellowship. As Tennyson said, "I am part of all that I have inextricably interwoven into our lfie's fabric.

IT WAS 20 years ago when my wife and I bought a little farm in Dutchess County, New York. Since we lived in New York City we had to have a farmer and among those who applied for the job was Ralph Rockwell.

He was of good solid Connecticut people and had worked hard all his life. I began asking him about his habits and ideals, and he said, "Don't worry — I'm your kind of folks." Guess he meant that he wuld see eye-to-eye and be on the same beam, so to speak. I liked him at once for he was a real person.

From then on he "used the place as if it were his own", as he put it. And I soon found out that he knew what to do and how to do it. He said to me, "You do the preaching and I'll do the farming." I wasn't too sure how much I did know about preaching, but was sure about how little I knew about farming — so I was glad to let it stand his way.

Some people say he produced the best beef in Dutchess County and to his credit, a neighbor once remarked: "This is the best manicured farm in the neighborhood."

All our family loved and respected "Mr. Rockwell". He helped our children grow up and there is much of his honest character in their young lives. He had a heart as big as all outdoors (though he often tried futilely to conceal it behind an assumed gruffness). And he was always kind not only to children but to animals.

WE HAD a dog named Lassie, a springer spaniel. Lassie came to us when she was a month old and for 13 years was a beloved member of the family. When she began to grow old — "just like ourselves" said Mr. Rockwell — he made a special bed for her by the stove in the tool house.

He watched over her when she became partially blind and so stiff of joints that she could walk only with difficulty. But she could still wag her tail in the same old excited manner and look at you with big loving eyes.

Mr. Rockwell would stroke her head and she would nuzzle against his legs.. They understood each other.

Then one night Lassie failed to appear. Long after dark with flashlight in hand Mr. Rockwell combed the fields and walked up and down the roads. It was not until late the next day that she came crawling, slowly and painfully, back to the barn. She hadn't been hurt — she had just given out and apparently had been lying helplessly in the tall grass.

LASSIE DIED at his feet. He took her in his arms and tenderly buried her up in the orchard. Tears came to his eyes and his voice broke when he told us about it.

"She just grew old, crippled and feeble, just as we will in our time. I buried her under an apple tree, the one that has the prettiest blossoms in the springtime so we will never forget her."

I have always thought that kindness to people and to animals reveals something pretty fine about a man.

So it is that when a friend dies or thoughts turn back to some of the touching human things that endeared him to us. Shakespeare must have been thinking along this line when he wrote that bit of advice: "Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

How right he was. Friends are so very important to our lives—we are reminded of this when suddenly they go from us. Let us be thankful for each of them.

The Power Of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

The Apostles—IV

PAUL

"... we walk by faith, not by sight."

Paul, the great missionary of Christ, lived his faith. This philosophy carried him over parched lands and stormy seas, preaching and teaching. His zeal sustained him during his years of imprisonment by the Romans, during which time he wrote a number of his Epistles. He wrote over half the books in the New Testament, and always the core of his letters was the power and glory of God.

When Paul felt the end of his life was near, he wrote in his second letter to Timothy, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Salem Noses Out Columbiana For County Track Crown

Clippers' Jim Ward Wins 3 Events

Review Sports Editor

Blond Bill Beery, Salem's all-around athlete, came flashing across the finish line first in the mile relay and with it went the championship of the 59th Columbiana Country Track and Field meet Friday night at East Palestine.

The 1962 edition will be remembered for its exciting finish, which went right down to the last event on the program, and also for an outstanding performance by Columbiana's sophomore sensation Jim Ward.

Salem and Columbiana put on a real tug-of-way struggle as the Quaker and Clipper banner kept exchanging places between first and second throughout the evening on the infield scoreboard.

SEVEN other teams which competed were left far behind in the race for the coveted county title.

The Quakers successfully defended their crown, which by the way was Salem's 25th. Salem wound up with 58 9-12 points to 54 9-12 for Columbiana.

The remainder of the field showed East Palestine 24 6-12, Leetonia 22 8-12, Wellsville 19 10-12, East Liverpool 18, Beaver Local 14 9-12, United 7 9-12 and Crestview 3.

Columbiana had about everything but a mile - relay team. The Clippers went into the final event with a two-point lead, 54 9-12 to 52 9-12, but finished last out of eight mile - relay teams as Salem ran off with the title.

THE QUAKERS' winning quartet included Dave Taus, Tad Bonsall, Jim Ward and Beery, who anchored the team to its important victory.

Columbiana's Ward, along with teammates Paul Murphy and Fred Gosney, put on a real show for the large gathering.

The Columbiana star is the son of the Clipper track coach Waldo Ward, who didn't even get to see his son turn in the fine performance since he was attending a teachers' meeting in Columbus.

Young Ward came into the meet favored to win three events and anchor the 880-yard relay team to victory and he did just that.

He started his string of victories in the afternoon with a first in the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet, 6½ inches. A clocking of 10.5 by Ward won the 100-yard dash and he bounced back later in the evening to run the 220 in 23 flat.

The half - mile relay team, anchored by Ward, also included Gosney, Dave Garrod and Murphy.

WHILE Salem won the meet title and the Class AA crown, Columbiana took the Class A championship. Ward was the high point man of the meet and won the Class A trophy with 19 points. Salem's Dave Edling and Ty Enders shared high point honors in the Class AA ranks.

Salem did not have standouts, but Coach Karl Zellers' team had more balance than a tight-rope walker.

No meet records were broken, but one was tied in the afternoon trials.

Gosney of Columbiana topped the 180-yard low hurdles in 21.3 to tie a record set by Tony Conkle of East Palestine in 1952.

However, in the finals last night, Gosney's teammate Murphy won the event in 21.4, only one-tenth of a second off the meet record. Gosney was second, a shade behind Murphy.

The versatile Murphy also won the shot put with a heave of 49 feet, 8 inches and placed second in the discus.

COLUMBIANA won six firsts while Salem showed four and a tie. The Quakers placed one, two in the mile run won by Ken Krause in 4:45, with teammate John Tarelton was second. Berry took the 440-yard dash in 53.

Enders won the discus with a toss of 145 feet, 8 inches and was second in the shot put. Salem's other top scorer Edling was second in the 100-yard dash, fourth in the 220 and third in the broad jump.

The best effort for East Liverpool, which finished sixth, was turned in by senior Dave Harriel, who finished second in the 220-yard dash and fourth in the 100, defeating his old rival Jim Reed of Wellsville in both events. Harriel had lost to Reed in two regular season meets earlier this spring.

CLYDE Griffith of the Potters, flashed home third in the 440-yard dash, recording a time of 53.9. Jim Richardson placed third in the 120-yard high hurdles and Gary McKee took third in the mile run.

East Liverpool's other points came when the mile relay team finished fourth and the 880-yard team was fifth.

Wellsville, the fifth - place finisher, shared a first in the high jump where Larry Giles was in a three-way tie at 5 feet, 8 inches.

Mark Leyda, hampered by an injured shoulder, still managed a second - place finish in the broad jump.

John Detchon and Don Goforth led the way for Beaver Local, which finished seventh out of the field of nine teams.

Detchon was only one-tenth of a second in back of Beery in the 440-yard dash for second place and he turned in a good leg of the mile relay, putting on a late sprint to give the Beavers a second place in that event.

Goforth shared a first with East Palestine's Bob Robinson in the pole vault as both made it to the 10-feet, 6-inch mark.

East Palestine had one first place when Fred Hoaglin won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.8.

Two Leetonia thinclads shared first in the high jump with Wellsville's Giles. Russ Lehman and Mike Burgess also hit 5 feet, 8 inches.

Grant Tosses Five-Hitter In Tribe Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—"I was determined to throw as hard as I could as long as I could," said Jim (Mudcat) Grant. The Cleveland right-hander, home on 30-day furlough from the Army, was explaining his five-hitter against the New York Yankees Friday night.

The Indians whipped the league-leading Yanks 7-1 with a 14-hit attack, paced by homers from the bats of Don Dillard and Woodie Held, and cut New York's lead to a half game.

"I wasn't sure I was ready for nine innings," Grant said, "but against this team you don't pace yourself."

Grant, who saw his string of 16 2-3 scoreless innings snapped by an eighth inning home run by Bill Skowron, pointed to control as the key to his success.

"I didn't walk a man," he noted. "And I was ahead or even with the batter almost all the time."

Grant (2-0) doesn't have to be back at Ft. Belvoir, Va., until June 7 and he should be a big help to the Tribe pitching staff during his leave.

McGaha said he would come back with either rookie southpaw Sam McDowell (2-1) or right-hander Gary Bell (2-2) today. The Yanks were sending right-hander Bill Stafford (2-2) to the mound to protect first place.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit beat Boston 5-1 behind Paul Foytack's five - hitter; Washington used an 11-run inning to clobber Baltimore 12-1, and Kansas City edged Minnesota 5-3 in a game halted by rain with two out in the last of the eighth inning.

Making his first start since he pitched a no-hitter last Saturday, Los Angeles' Bo Belinsky won his fifth game without a loss as the Angels whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Friday night and moved into third place in the American League.

Belinsky held the White Sox to six hits and two runs before a grounder by Al Smith in the eighth inning bounced off his leg and forced him from the game. He struck out 11 before leaving, lowering his earned run average to an amazing 1.70.

The White Sox scored the first run off Belinsky in 14 1-3 innings with a walk, a single by Smith and an infield out in the sixth inning. They got their other when Smith's single drove in Nellie Fox and drove out Belinsky. Art Fowler came on to finish up. The Angels, meanwhile, had put it away in the fourth, getting two runs for a 3-0 lead when Joe Koppe singled with the bases loaded.

Foytack (1-0), allowed only one unearned run. A two-run homer by Chico Fernandez off Don Schwall (1-4) in the second inning put the Tigers ahead to stay and Norm Cash made it 3-0 in the sixth with his eighth homer, cracking a roof-clearing shot for only the sixth fair ball ever hit out of Tiger Stadium.

Gene Woodling's grand slam homer was the big blow in the Senators 11-run sixth inning explosion that beat the Orioles. Ten consecutive batters reached base successfully.

The Twins had the tying runs on base when, after an hour's wait, the game was called. The A's had snapped a 3-3 tie in the sixth on singles by Norm Siebern and Gino Cimoli, two walks and an error.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers led 1961 National League pitchers in the "hit by pitcher" category. He plunked 20 batters. Don Cardwell of the Chicago Cubs was "runnerup" with 10 hit batsmen.

A VERY HAPPY Jim Ward of Columbiana, star of the 1962 County Track meet, receives congratulations from Miss Nola Marshall of East Palestine, who reigned as queen of the annual track and field carnival Friday night at East Palestine. Ward won three first place spots in leading his team to the Class A title and the runnerup spot in the meet.

Gary Player Holds Slim Lead In Texas Tourney

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP)—Gary Player, who says his putting runs in streaks and right now it's sizzling, carried a one-shot lead into the third round of the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament today.

The scrappy South African, whose moods vary with his golf game, was jubilant Friday after he fired an even-par 70 to snatch the lead from Arnold Palmer.

Player had a 36-hole total of 138, a shot ahead of Palmer and Johnny Pott.

The personable Player — who dressed in black from head-to-toe because, he contends, it gives him a feeling of strength—sank an 80-foot birdie putt on the eighth hole to highlight his day.

He started with birdies on the first two holes, sinking a 6-foot putt on the first and chipping in from 30 feet on the second.

He rammed home a 10-foot putt for a par on the final hole to take the lead and exclaimed later:

"I had the best putting round today that I've had in a year."

It was a bad day generally for golfdom's elite as a tricky wind swept the 7,112-yard layout. None of the remaining field of 55 cracked par and only four equalled it. This contrasted sharply with Thursday's round when nine bettered par and Palmer took the lead with a 3-under- 67.

Second round leaders:

Gary Player	68-70—138
Arnold Palmer	67-72—139
Johnny Pott	69-70—139
Doug Ford	68-72—140

Berhar's Homer In 7th Brings Beavers Victory

Gary Berhar walloped a home run in the last of the seventh inning to provide Beaver Local High with an 8-7 victory over Chester Friday at Beaver Local.

The first sacker of the Beavers belted the first pitch in the final frame off Conkle to break a 7-7 tie.

Bill Tychonievich, Beaver Local's second baseman, also homered, the blast coming in the second inning with one man on base.

Gary Shaw picked up the pitching victory for Beaver Local in relief of Dennis Horger. Walter Schukert had started, but gave way to a pinch-hitter in the third, with Horger coming on in the fourth.

Conkle, a southpaw, went the distance for Chester. He was tagged solidly in the early innings, but pitched scoreless ball from the fourth until Berhar's blast ended the game.

Coach Flody Suarez Beavers are 7-4 for the season.

Pittsburgh Blows 2 To 0 Lead In 10th

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds had reason to be happy today.

In defeating Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings Friday night, his team showed the stuff with which it won the National League pennant last season.

Down two runs in their half of the tenth, the Reds put together a walk and four hits to give Joey Jay a pitching duel over Alvin McBean.

It was Jay's fourth victory against three losses this season. For hard - throwing McBean it was the first defeat in four decisions.

The bust-out by both teams in the extra inning ended the best all-around game played here this spring.

Credit for the victory was not all Jay's, of course. The men on the bench and three of the regulars shared in the rally. It was that kind of combination the club used to win its pennant.

After McBean and Jay beat back the batters for nine innings, here is what happened in the tenth:

Bill Mazeroski singled between two outs. Successive singles by Dick Schofield, Dick Groat and Bob Skinner brought in two runs.

Then the Reds took their turn. With one out, Leo Cardenas walked and pinch-hitters Don Zimmer and Joe Gaines singled, Cardenas scoring. Elroy Face replaced McBean. Eddie Kasko flied to center, Zimmer scoring after the catch to tie the game. Vada Pinson singled Gaines to second.

Frank Robinson then smashed a slider to center, driving in the winning run.

For Zimmmer, it was the second time in two trips to the plate he has hit safely since coming here from the New York Mets—where he hit .077.

The same teams will play tonight, Jim O'Toole (2-4) pitching for Cincinnati while Vern Law (0-0) tests his question-mark shoulder for the Bucs.

Dodgers Top Cards, Take Second Place

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers, apparently on the move, whipped the St. Louis Cardinals and replaced St. Louis in second place in the National League standings.

Perhaps of even more importance, however, was an injury to veteran Cardinal outfielder Minnie Minoso, carried from the field on a stretcher after crashing headlong into a concrete fence while chasing a fly ball.

Minoso, 39, counted on to give the Cards important hitting help, was knocked unconscious. He was rushed to a hospital where a diagnosis indicated he had a skull fracture.

The victory extended the Dodgers' modest string to four straight and—with a big assist from former teammate Dick Farrell — allowed them to clip a full game off San Francisco's leading margin.

Farrell, a big, fast Houston right-hander drafted from the Dodgers for $125,000, helped his old mates' relative standing with a sterling 7-0 shutout of San Francisco that cut the Giants' lead to three games.

It was not known immediately how long Minoso would be lost to the Cardinals. He was injured while chasing a pinch-hit triple by veteran Duke Snider that drove in three runs, snapped a 2-2 tie, and put the Dodgers ahead to stay. Rookie Larry Burright also drove in three runs with two singles.

Stan Musial, one short of Hans Wagner's National League record of 3,430 hits, was held hitless for the second straight night.

Farrell, 6 feet 4 and a 220-pounder, struck out nine in handing the Giants their first shutout of the season. He was touched for six hits but got tough with men on base. Farrell, now 3-2, also stroked a solo homer as he went the distance for the second time in a row.

Del Crandall drove in four runs with a double and two singles in Milwaukee's victory, but the Braves had to stand off a last-gasp Met threat in the ninth. Trailing 8-2, the Mets got started against Bob Shaw (3-1), chased in three runs, and had the bases loaded before relief man Don Nottebart got Charlie Neal on a called third strike to end it.

Don Demeter was the big gun in Philadelphia's 16-hit attack against Chicago. He drove in six runs on the second grand-slam homer of his career, a single and a sacrifice fly. Outfielder Johnny Callison and Ted Savage got four hits each for the Phillies, who have now won six of their last eight.

When Roger Maris hit 61 home runs and Mickey Mantle hit 54 for the New York Yankees in 1961, it was the first time two players on the same club had each hit more than 50 homers in the same season.

BEAVER LOCAL'S Don Goforth sails over the bar at 10 feet, 6 inches to gain a tie for first place in the pole vault. Goforth tied with East Palestine's Bob Robinson in the Columbiana County track meet Friday night.

Potters Gain 14th Golf Win

Bob Putt and Bruce Burbick fired two-over par 38's to lead East Liverpool High's twice-beaten golf team to a 9-4 victory over Beaver Local High Friday.

The two Potter flashes shared medalist honors as the Blue and white won its 14th match at the Country Club course.

John Rohrer and Dave Thorne of ELHS each carded a 46. Phil Ankrim and Tom McComas were low for the Beavers with 43's.

Grant Tosses Five-Hitter In Tribe Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—"I was determined to throw as hard as I could as long as I could," said Jim (Mudcat) Grant. The Cleveland right-hander, home on 30-day furlough from the Army, was explaining his five-hitter against the New York Yankees Friday night.

The Indians whipped the league-leading Yanks 7-1 with a 14-hit attack, paced by homers from the bats of Don Dillard and Woodie Held, and cut New York's lead to a half game.

"I wasn't sure I was ready for nine innings," Grant said, "but against this team you don't pace yourself."

Grant, who saw his string of 16 2-3 scoreless innings snapped by an eighth inning home run by Bill Skowron, pointed to control as the key to his success.

"I didn't walk a man," he noted. "And I was ahead or even with the batter almost all the time."

Grant (2-0) doesn't have to be back at Ft. Belvoir, Va., until June 7 and he should be a big help to the Tribe pitching staff during his leave.

McGaha said he would come back with either rookie southpaw Sam McDowell (2-1) or right-hander Gary Bell (2-2) today. The Yanks were sending right-hander Bill Stafford (2-2) to the mound to protect first place.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit beat Boston 5-1 behind Paul Foytack's five - hitter; Washington used an 11-run inning to clobber Baltimore 12-1, and Kansas City edged Minnesota 5-3 in a game halted by rain with two out in the last of the eighth inning.

Making his first start since he pitched a no-hitter last Saturday, Los Angeles' Bo Belinsky won his fifth game without a loss as the Angels whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Friday night and moved into third place in the American League.

Belinsky held the White Sox to six hits and two runs before a grounder by Al Smith in the eighth inning bounced off his leg and forced him from the game. He struck out 11 before leaving, lowering his earned run average to an amazing 1.70.

The White Sox scored the first run off Belinsky in 14 1-3 innings with a walk, a single by Smith and an infield out in the sixth inning. They got their other when Smith's single drove in Nellie Fox and drove out Belinsky. Art Fowler came on to finish up. The Angels, meanwhile, had put it away in the fourth, getting two runs for a 3-0 lead when Joe Koppe singled with the bases loaded.

Foytack (1-0), allowed only one unearned run. A two-run homer by Chico Fernandez off Don Schwall (1-4) in the second inning put the Tigers ahead to stay and Norm Cash made it 3-0 in the sixth with his eighth homer, cracking a roof-clearing shot for only the sixth fair ball ever hit out of Tiger Stadium.

Gene Woodling's grand slam homer was the big blow in the Senators 11-run sixth inning explosion that beat the Orioles. Ten consecutive batters reached base successfully.

The Twins had the tying runs on base when, after an hour's wait, the game was called. The A's had snapped a 3-3 tie in the sixth on singles by Norm Siebern and Gino Cimoli, two walks and an error.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers led 1961 National League pitchers in the "hit by pitcher" category. He plunked 20 batters. Don Cardwell of the Chicago Cubs was "runnerup" with 10 hit batsmen.

A VERY HAPPY Jim Ward of Columbiana, star of the 1962 County Track meet, receives congratulations from Miss Nola Marshall of East Palestine, who reigned as queen of the annual track and field carnival Friday night at East Palestine. Ward won three first place spots in leading his team to the Class A title and the runnerup spot in the meet.

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP)—Gary Player, who says his putting runs in streaks and right now it's sizzling, carried a one-shot lead into the third round of the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament today.

The scrappy South African, whose moods vary with his golf game, was jubilant Friday after he fired an even-par 70 to snatch the lead from Arnold Palmer.

Player had a 36-hole total of 138, a shot ahead of Palmer and Johnny Pott.

The personable Player — who dressed in black from head-to-toe because, he contends, it gives him a feeling of strength—sank an 80-foot birdie putt on the eighth hole to highlight his day.

He started with birdies on the first two holes, sinking a 6-foot putt on the first and chipping in from 30 feet on the second.

He rammed home a 10-foot putt for a par on the final hole to take the lead and exclaimed later:

"I had the best putting round today that I've had in a year."

It was a bad day generally for golfdom's elite as a tricky wind swept the 7,112-yard layout. None of the remaining field of 55 cracked par and only four equalled it. This contrasted sharply with Thursday's round when nine bettered par and Palmer took the lead with a 3-under- 67.

Second round leaders:

Gary Player	68-70—138
Arnold Palmer	67-72—139
Johnny Pott	69-70—139
Doug Ford	68-72—140
Jack Nicklaus	69-71—140

Berhar's Homer In 7th Brings Beavers Victory

Gary Berhar walloped a home run in the last of the seventh inning to provide Beaver Local High with an 8-7 victory over Chester Friday at Beaver Local.

The first sacker of the Beavers belted the first pitch in the final frame off Conkle to break a 7-7 tie.

Bill Tychonievich, Beaver Local's second baseman, also homered, the blast coming in the second inning with one man on base.

Gary Shaw picked up the pitching victory for Beaver Local in relief of Dennis Horger. Walter Schukert had started, but gave way to a pinch-hitter in the third, with Horger coming on in the fourth.

Conkle, a southpaw, went the distance for Chester. He was tagged solidly in the early innings, but pitched scoreless ball from the fourth until Berhar's blast ended the game.

Coach Flody Suarez Beavers are 7-4 for the season.

Pittsburgh Blows 2 To 0 Lead In 10th

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds had reason to be happy today.

In defeating Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings Friday night, his team showed the stuff with which it won the National League pennant last season.

Down two runs in their half of the tenth, the Reds put together a walk and four hits to give Joey Jay a pitching duel over Alvin McBean.

It was Jay's fourth victory against three losses this season. For hard - throwing McBean it was the first defeat in four decisions.

The bust-out by both teams in the extra inning ended the best all-around game played here this spring.

Credit for the victory was not all Jay's, of course. The men on the bench and three of the regulars shared in the rally. It was that kind of combination the club used to win its pennant.

After McBean and Jay beat back the batters for nine innings, here is what happened in the tenth:

Bill Mazeroski singled between two outs. Successive singles by Dick Schofield, Dick Groat and Bob Skinner brought in two runs.

Then the Reds took their turn.

With one out, Leo Cardenas walked and pinch-hitters Don Zimmer and Joe Gaines singled, Cardenas scoring. Elroy Face replaced McBean. Eddie Kasko flied to center, Zimmer scoring after the catch to tie the game. Vada Pinson singled Gaines to second.

Frank Robinson then smashed a slider to center, driving in the winning run.

For Zimmmer, it was the second time in two trips to the plate he has hit safely since coming here from the New York Mets—where he hit .077.

The same teams will play tonight, Jim O'Toole (2-4) pitching for Cincinnati while Vern Law (0-0) tests his question-mark shoulder for the Bucs.

Dodgers Top Cards, Take Second Place

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers, apparently on the move, whipped the St. Louis Cardinals and replaced St. Louis in second place in the National League standings.

Perhaps of even more importance, however, was an injury to veteran Cardinal outfielder Minnie Minoso, carried from the field on a stretcher after crashing headlong into a concrete fence while chasing a fly ball.

Minoso, 39, counted on to give the Cards important hitting help, was knocked unconscious. He was rushed to a hospital where a diagnosis indicated he had a skull fracture.

The victory extended the Dodgers' modest string to four straight and—with a big assist from former teammate Dick Farrell — allowed them to clip a full game off San Francisco's leading margin.

Farrell, a big, fast Houston right-hander drafted from the Dodgers for $125,000, helped his old mates' relative standing with a sterling 7-0 shutout of San Francisco that cut the Giants' lead to three games.

It was not known immediately how long Minoso would be lost to the Cardinals. He was injured while chasing a pinch-hit triple by veteran Duke Snider that drove in three runs, snapped a 2-2 tie, and put the Dodgers ahead to stay. Rookie Larry Burright also drove in three runs with two singles.

Stan Musial, one short of Hans Wagner's National League record of 3,430 hits, was held hitless for the second straight night.

Farrell, 6 feet 4 and a 220-pounder, struck out nine in handing the Giants their first shutout of the season. He was touched for six hits but got tough with men on base. Farrell, now 3-2, also stroked a solo homer as he went the distance for the second time in a row.

Del Crandall drove in four runs with a double and two singles in Milwaukee's victory, but the Braves had to stand off a last-gasp Met threat in the ninth. Trailing 8-2, the Mets got started against Bob Shaw (3-1), chased in three runs, and had the bases loaded before relief man Don Nottebart got Charlie Neal on a called third strike to end it.

Don Demeter was the big gun in Philadelphia's 16-hit attack against Chicago. He drove in six runs on the second grand-slam homer of his career, a single and a sacrifice fly. Outfielder Johnny Callison and Ted Savage got four hits each for the Phillies, who have now won six of their last eight.

When Roger Maris hit 61 home runs and Mickey Mantle hit 54 for the New York Yankees in 1961, it was the first time two players on the same club had each hit more than 50 homers in the same season.

BEAVER LOCAL'S Don Goforth sails over the bar at 10 feet, 6 inches to gain a tie for first place in the pole vault. Goforth tied with East Palestine's Bob Robinson in the Columbiana County track meet Friday night.

Potters Gain 14th Golf Win

Bob Putt and Bruce Burbick fired two-over par 38's to lead East Liverpool High's twice-beaten golf team to a 9-4 victory over Beaver Local High Friday.

The two Potter flashes shared medalist honors as the Blue and white won its 14th match at the Country Club course.

John Rohrer and Dave Thorne of ELHS each carded a 46. Phil Ankrim and Tom McComas were low for the Beavers with 43's.

Johnson Defends Fight Title Against Jones, 25

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, seeking fame and fortune he feels have eluded him during his 16 knockdown and drag-out years in the ring, defends his light heavyweight boxing title tonight against the strong challenge of Doug Jones.

The 33-year-old Johnson, of Philadelphia, and his 25-year-old opponent from New York are scheduled to go 15 rounds before an estimated sellout crowd of 8,000 paying an estimated $50,000. The bout at 10 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time is to be televised nationally by ABC with the area within a 90-mile radius of the city blacked out.

Johnson feels this is the fight that will make him the kind of champion he's always dreamed of being—undisputed. Currently, the National Boxing Association champion, he can earn recognition of New York state and Europe by defeating Jones. New York and European officials have with-drawn recognition of Archie Moore as 175-pound champion for non-defense of the title.

Also, for the first time, Johnson sees ahead the big money he has heard champions earn but he has never made. For tonight's effort he is guaranteed $20,000 and 40 percent of the gate, his career high purse. Jones gets $17,500 plus training expenses.

Johnson, although he has been upset by a legal battle with his manager of record, Pat Oliviere, over money and their contract, is at least an 8-5 favorite to turn back the relatively inexperienced New York fighters.

Wellsville Committee Seeks Funds For Stadium Project

A fund campaign has been opened in Wellsville by a citizens' committee for a project of construction of a new entrance to Nicholson Stadium—home of Wellsville High's Tigers.

Letters asking aid in the project have been sent to individuals, organizations and business firms by the Nicholson Field Improvement Committee.

The Senior Class of 1962 kicked off the campaign by voting to turn over $1,000 to the committee for construction of a combination ticket office and concession stand, connected to a gated entrance.

It will be constructed of brick expected to be donated by a local factory, with all labor to be donated.

The appeals sent by the committee point out that major repair work has been done on the stadium itself in the past year, but that there were no funds available to provide an attractive entrance, ticket office and concession stand.

"Practically every stadium we visit has such features, some of which are quite elaborate. We propose to build a combination ticket office with four windows, the concession stand, connected to a gated entrance — nothing ornate, but efficient and attractive," the committee said.

A permanent plaque listing donors of $25 or more will be placed at the entrance. The Omni Club of Wellsville has promised a "good donation."

The new entrance is expected to be completed by fall and will be dedicated at Wellsville's first home football game Sept. 14 against Lisbon. Work is to begin soon.

Earl Mundy is chairman and members are Russell Dysert of the Board of Education; Don Lowe, faculty manager and secretary of the Athletic Association; Mrs. Helen Welch, faculty member; Principal William Menough, Charles F. Stone and Mrs. Frank Leyda of the Omni Club, John Euill, president of the Senior Class; Miss Rita DeSarro, also a senior, and Frank Fusco, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Contributions may be made to Stone, treasurer. Checks may be mailed to Box 271, Wellsville, made payable to the Nicholson Field Improvement Committee.

The stadium was erected about 1932 as a Public Works Administration project.

Speedway Waits 150 MPH Lap In Qualifying Runs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The first 150-mile-per-hour lap in the history of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was within reach today as qualifications opened for the 500-mile race May 30.

Thirty of the 72 cars entered for the big race appeared to be ready to attempt qualification. Twenty-eight drivers topped 145 m.p.h. in the two weeks the track has been open for practice.

The car with the fastest time for the 10-mile run today will start the Memorial Day race in the pole position—the inside spot in the three-car front row.

Other qualifying sessions are set for Sunday and next Saturday and Sunday. The first day's qualifiers will start in front, but only the 33 fastest cars will run in the race. Prize money for the qualifications total $15,000, including $1,200 for the best time each day and an extra $1,000 for the fastest of all.

Space Flight Delayed By Control 'Bug'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The scheduled orbital flight of astronaut Malcom Scott Carpenter has slipped two days to May 19 because of trouble with the automatic control system in his space capsule.

Officials reported that the problem was minor but required extra time to correct. Difficulty with the control system plagued the orbital flight of both Enos the chimpanzee, and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

At Boulder, Colo., Carpenter's mother spoke with pride and confidence of her son's mission.

Mrs. Florence Carpenter said "The magnificence of the experience he is going to have is so great that it would minimize—it would erase—any apprehension I might have."

Mrs. Carpenter, frail but articulate, was in high spirits at a press conference Thursday.

"Most people don't like to hear about other people's children, although they enjoy talking about their own," she said. "Scott's selection as an astronaut has given me freedom to talk about him all I choose, and I enjoy that."

Had Wonderful Time, Review Newsboy Says

"I had a wonderful time and wish to thank all who made the trip possible — including my customers, The Review and Family Weekly."

These words sum up the feeling of Ron Coen, a carrier for The Review, upon his return from the West Coast as a winner in a subscription contest.

Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coen of Newell.

It was a busy time for Ron and the other newsboys who made the trip as the top carriers in various contests throughout the nation. The Newell youth's diary of the trip speaks for itself:

Monday — "We played miniature golf and took a tour of the Walt Disney studios, where we met Walt Disney and saw a movie called 'Big Red'.

Tuesday — "We participated in a model car building contest in which we built models of a 1962 Valiant. First prize was a 1962 Valiant furnished by the Chrysler Corp. We also met John Probos and Lassie from the TV show 'Lassie'. Later that evening we went to a ball game at the Dodgers' new stadium in Los Angeles. Several boys were chosen to meet the Dodger players.

Wednesday — "We spent the day at Disneyland Park, where we were given free tickets for 60 rides. Wednesday evening we went to Knotts Berry Farm, which is a town just as it was in the old Gold Rush days. While there, we were entertained by Johnny Crawford from the TV show 'Rifleman'. We also saw a movie called 'Geronimo'.

Thursday — "We went to Marineland of the Pacific, where we saw trained seals, porpoises and whales. We also went deep sea fishing and bowling.

Friday — "We spent the day at Disneyland and in the evening we had a banquet, with Rock Hudson as our guest. The main prizes were presented by Mr. Hudson at the banquet. They included two four-week trips around the world by air, a trip by airliner to Brazil, six trips to the Seattle World's Fair, several sets of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, 20 free flying lessons and a 1962 automobile."

And then it was back home for Ron and the other newsboys, with thoughts of next year's contest.

Recruiter Reviews Army Air Defense Participation

A review of the Army's role in air defense was presened by Sgt. Edward Vatlor, Army recruiting officer here, at the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Today marks the beginning of Armed Forces Week.

"Air defense is particularly important to residents of the tri-state industrial complex who live in or near a prime target area," Sgt. Vallor said, explaining the weapons being used and their capabilities.

The first anti-aircraft battery was organized in October, 1917, and anti-aircraft was relied upon to defend against air attack until 1953 when the Nike missile came into being.

The North American Air Defense Command was created in 1957 to combine various service units into one command. It includes Army, Air Force and Navy forces plus those of Canada and has some 200,000 personnel, about a third of whom are Army men.

In addition to missiles, planes and ships, it also operates three radar lines, DEW (distant early warning), mid-Canada and Pine Tree, Sgt. Vallor said.

The Nike "family" now is in its third generation, progressing from the Ajax with a limited range of about 25 miles to Hercules, the first missile with atomic capability and a range of 75 miles, to Zeus, which is in the final stage of development, the recruiter continued.

The Hercules tripled the range and capability of the Ajax and can outspeed and outmanuever any airplane at high altitudes. It has "defeated" every target flown against it," Sgt. Vallor said.

However, it is not the answer to inercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM).

The Zeus provides the capability to defend against the ICBM's and submarine - launched intermediate missiles and is designed to operate at speeds from 15,000 to 20,000 miles an hour. It has been tested since August 1959 and the final test will pit it against the mighty Atlas missile.

Because of the variety of weapons available to any attacher, however, none is the complete answer. A mixed defense is necessary, he said.

To aid battery commanders in making rapid decisions with reliability, the "missile master" has come into being. Although it doesn't fire a missile, the system provides the battery commander with speedy, accurate and complete information.

Sgt. Vallor also discussed briefly the Hawk missile designed for field troops which can operate against attackers at treetop level or fairly high altitudes.

The recruiter was inroduced by Clarence Wright, program chairman.

Hayes said he would appoint Richard Winegord of the Columbiana post as county adjutant.

McCoy presented Hughes with a life membership. Hughes will be starting his 10th year as county finance officer next month. The life membership was purchased for him by the council.

It was announced that Knoble will be a candidate for 10th District commander at the Massillon session in June.

Dwight Bush of North Georgetown, district second vice commander, reminded members of the district trap shoot which was to be held this afternoon and tonight at New Philadelphia, and the district convention at Massillon Post 221 June 9 and 10.

McCoy announced that installation of officers will be held at council's next meeting at 8:30 p.m. June 8 at Salem Post 56.

Man is advised in the Bible to take a vacation immediately after marriage. Deuteronomy 24:5 states "When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go to war, neither shall be be charged with any business, but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

Johnson Defends Fight Title Against Jones, 25

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, seeking fame and fortune he feels have eluded him during his 16 knockdown and drag-out years in the ring, defends his light heavyweight boxing title tonight against the strong challenge of Doug Jones.

The 33-year-old Johnson, of Philadelphia, and his 25-year-old opponent from New York are scheduled to go 15 rounds before an estimated sellout crowd of 8,000 paying an estimated $50,000. The bout at 10 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time is to be televised nationally by ABC with the area within a 90-mile radius of the city blacked out.

Johnson feels this is the fight that will make him the kind of champion he's always dreamed of being—undisputed. Currently, the National Boxing Association champion, he can earn recognition of New York state and Europe by defeating Jones. New York and European officials have with-drawn recognition of Archie Moore as 175-pound champion for non-defense of the title.

Also, for the first time, Johnson sees ahead the big money he has heard champions earn but he has never made. For tonight's effort he is guaranteed $20,000 and 40 percent of the gate, his career high purse. Jones gets $17,500 plus training expenses.

Johnson, although he has been upset by a legal battle with his manager of record, Pat Oliviere, over money and their contract, is at least an 8-5 favorite to turn back the relatively inexperienced New York fighters.

Wellsville Committee Seeks Funds For Stadium Project

A fund campaign has been opened in Wellsville by a citizens' committee for a project of construction of a new entrance to Nicholson Stadium—home of Wellsville High's Tigers.

Letters asking aid in the project have been sent to individuals, organizations and business firms by the Nicholson Field Improvement Committee.

The Senior Class of 1962 kicked off the campaign by voting to turn over $1,000 to the committee for construction of a combination ticket office and concession stand, connected to a gated entrance.

It will be constructed of brick expected to be donated by a local factory, with all labor to be donated.

The appeals sent by the committee point out that major repair work has been done on the stadium itself in the past year, but that there were no funds available to provide an attractive entrance, ticket office and concession stand.

"Practically every stadium we visit has such features, some of which are quite elaborate. We propose to build a combination ticket office with four windows, the concession stand, connected to a gated entrance — nothing ornate, but efficient and attractive," the committee said.

A permanent plaque listing donors of $25 or more will be placed at the entrance. The Omni Club of Wellsville has promised a "good donation."

The new entrance is expected to be completed by fall and will be dedicated at Wellsville's first home football game Sept. 14 against Lisbon. Work is to begin soon.

Earl Mundy is chairman and members are Russell Dysert of the Board of Education; Don Lowe, faculty manager and secretary of the Athletic Association; Mrs. Helen Welch, faculty member; Principal William Menough, Charles F. Stone and Mrs. Frank Leyda of the Omni Club, John Euill, president of the Senior Class; Miss Rita DeSarro, also a senior, and Frank Fusco, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Contributions may be made to Stone, treasurer. Checks may be mailed to Box 271, Wellsville, made payable to the Nicholson Field Improvement Committee.

The stadium was erected about 1932 as a Public Works Administration project.

Space Flight Delayed By Control 'Bug'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The scheduled orbital flight of astronaut Malcom Scott Carpenter has slipped two days to May 19 because of trouble with the automatic control system in his space capsule.

Officials reported that the problem was minor but required extra time to correct. Difficulty with the control system plagued the orbital flight of both Enos the chimpanzee, and astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

At Boulder, Colo., Carpenter's mother spoke with pride and confidence of her son's mission.

Mrs. Florence Carpenter said "The magnificence of the experience he is going to have is so great that it would minimize—it would erase—any apprehension I might have."

Mrs. Carpenter, frail but articulate, was in high spirits at a press conference Thursday.

"Most people don't like to hear about other people's children, although they enjoy talking about their own," she said. "Scott's selection as an astronaut has given me freedom to talk about him all I choose, and I enjoy that."

Had Wonderful Time, Review Newsboy Says

"I had a wonderful time and wish to thank all who made the trip possible — including my customers, The Review and Family Weekly."

These words sum up the feeling of Ron Coen, a carrier for The Review, upon his return from the West Coast as a winner in a subscription contest.

Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coen of Newell.

It was a busy time for Ron and the other newsboys who made the trip as the top carriers in various contests throughout the nation. The Newell youth's diary of the trip speaks for itself:

Monday — "We played miniature golf and took a tour of the Walt Disney studios, where we met Walt Disney and saw a movie called 'Big Red'.

Tuesday — "We participated in a model car building contest in which we built models of a 1962 Valiant. First prize was a 1962 Valiant furnished by the Chrysler Corp. We also met John Probos and Lassie from the TV show 'Lassie'. Later that evening we went to a ball game at the Dodgers' new stadium in Los Angeles. Several boys were chosen to meet the Dodger players.

Wednesday — "We spent the day at Disneyland Park, where we were given free tickets for 60 rides. Wednesday evening we went to Knotts Berry Farm, which is a town just as it was in the old Gold Rush days. While there, we were entertained by Johnny Crawford from the TV show 'Rifleman'. We also saw a movie called 'Geronimo'.

Thursday — "We went to Marineland of the Pacific, where we saw trained seals, porpoises and whales. We also went deep sea fishing and bowling.

Friday — "We spent the day at Disneyland and in the evening we had a banquet, with Rock Hudson as our guest. The main prizes were presented by Mr. Hudson at the banquet. They included two four-week trips around the world by air, a trip by airliner to Brazil, six trips to the Seattle World's Fair, several sets of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, 20 free flying lessons and a 1962 automobile."

And then it was back home for Ron and the other newsboys, with thoughts of next year's contest.

Recruiter Reviews Army Air Defense Participation

A review of the Army's role in air defense was presened by Sgt. Edward Vatlor, Army recruiting officer here, at the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Today marks the beginning of Armed Forces Week.

"Air defense is particularly important to residents of the tri-state industrial complex who live in or near a prime target area," Sgt. Vallor said, explaining the weapons being used and their capabilities.

The first anti-aircraft battery was organized in October, 1917, and anti-aircraft was relied upon to defend against air attack until 1953 when the Nike missile came into being.

The North American Air Defense Command was created in 1957 to combine various service units into one command. It includes Army, Air Force and Navy forces plus those of Canada and has some 200,000 personnel, about a third of whom are Army men.

In addition to missiles, planes and ships, it also operates three radar lines, DEW (distant early warning), mid-Canada and Pine Tree, Sgt. Vallor said.

The Nike "family" now is in its third generation, progressing from the Ajax with a limited range of about 25 miles to Hercules, the first missile with atomic capability and a range of 75 miles, to Zeus, which is in the final stage of development, the recruiter continued.

The Hercules tripled the range and capability of the Ajax and can outspeed and outmanuever any airplane at high altitudes. It has "defeated" every target flown against it," Sgt. Vallor said.

However, it is not the answer to inercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM).

The Zeus provides the capability to defend against the ICBM's and submarine - launched intermediate missiles and is designed to operate at speeds from 15,000 to 20,000 miles an hour. It has been tested since August 1959 and the final test will pit it against the mighty Atlas missile.

Because of the variety of weapons available to any attacher, however, none is the complete answer. A mixed defense is necessary, he said.

To aid battery commanders in making rapid decisions with reliability, the "missile master" has come into being. Although it doesn't fire a missile, the system provides the battery commander with speedy, accurate and complete information.

Sgt. Vallor also discussed briefly the Hawk missile designed for field troops which can operate against attackers at treetop level or fairly high altitudes.

The recruiter was inroduced by Clarence Wright, program chairman.

LISBON — Albert Hayes of Columbiana Post 290 was elected commander of the Columbiana County Council of the American Legion Friday evening at his post. He succeeds Walter McCoy of Post 275 in Lisbon.

McCoy presented Hughes with a life membership. Hughes will be starting his 10th year as county finance officer next month. The life membership was purchased for him by the council.

He said there will be a meeting Sunday at Post 44 in Canton to further the plans. Details will be announced later by Cregar, county chairman.

Robert Knoble of Apple Creek, district first vice commander, stressed the need of more strict laws concerning released communist prisoners convicted of espionage in this country.

It was announced that Knoble will be a candidate for 10th District commander at the Massillon session in June.

Dwight Bush of North Georgetown, district second vice commander, reminded members of the district trap shoot which was to be held this afternoon and tonight at New Philadelphia, and the district convention at Massillon Post 221 June 9 and 10.

McCoy announced that installation of officers will be held at council's next meeting at 8:30 p.m. June 8 at Salem Post 56.

Man is advised in the Bible to take a vacation immediately after marriage. Deuteronomy 24:5 states "When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go to war, neither shall be be charged with any business, but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

High School Starts Course On 'Evils Of Communism'

A course on the "Evils of Communism" for all East Liverpool High School seniors was started Friday, Principal George Hargraves announced.

The short course is being given in American government and economics classes. The text, "This Is Communism," was approved by the Board of Education two months ago.

A kickoff assembly to launch the class was held Wednesday for seniors.

The graduating class will be given the essential high school content battery test May 18, 21, 22, 23, and 24.

Laos

for an all-out attack on the twin capitals of Laos that would give them complete control over this landlocked southeast Asia kingdom.

The Defense Ministry charged Soviet - made Ilyushin transport planes were rushing rebel troops and arms to newly won territory in an apparent buildup for a thrust at Luang Prabang in the heart of Laos and the administrative capital of Vientiane to the south.

King Savang Vathana appealed to Laotian leaders to try to solve the issue peacefully.

The king did not name the leaders in his throne speech to the National Assembly at Vientiane. But he clearly directed his remarks at the rebels who have surged more than 100 miles past the year-old cease-fire line to the border of Thailand.

The United States was openly concerned over the rebel surge. President Kennedy was reported planning to bolster American Military might in Southeast Asia to meet the threat to the central area.

Babb Commends Staff In C. Of C. Member Appeal

Alvin T. Babb, president of the Chamber of Commerce, today commended 50 volunteer workers for their "effective and enthusiastic" efforts in a Chamber membership drive that began Monday.

Although the campaign officially was scheduled to close Friday, it will be extended into early next week to allow some of the workers to complete their lists of calls on prospective members, Babb said.

Since a number of the workers will not submit final reports for a few days, the Chamber is unable to announce the number of members signed in the campaign, he explained.

Babb also commented that the campaign workers "were well-received" by the prospective members on whom they called.

The drive began Monday following a luncheon at which the team workers received final instructions and lists of prospects. The Chamber, seeking to push its membership over 500, made calls on 100 business and professional men and manufacturers.

Quake Rocks Mexico; Kills 2, Hurts 100

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An earthquake believed set off by a rumbling volcano struck south central Mexico Friday, killing two persons, injuring 100 others, causing widespread damage and spreading panic. Mexico is teeming with tourists at this time of the year, but first reports said no foreigners were injured.

The quake rocked Mexico City for nine seconds causing one man to die of shock and injured 30 other persons and ranged as far as 190 miles south of the capital.

(The shock which hit at 9:12 a.m. EST was described as "one of the largest earthquakes I have ever recorded" by Dr. J. C. Debremaecker, associate professor of geology at Rice University in Houston, Tex.)

Authorities said two persons perished when a church wing collapsed in Chilapa, about 60 miles from the Pacific Coast resort of Acapulco, one of the hardest hit areas. Thirty-six persons were injured in Acapulco.

The government launched an investigation into reports from around Nuxco, near Acapulco, that a volcano triggered the quake. A potential volcano had been reported earlier in an area about 60 miles east of Acapulco where farmhands said water had boiled up in local streams killing animals.

The earth shocks cracked ceilings and shattered windows in Mexico City's Continental Hilton Hotel badly damaged by a 1957 quake. Many frightened guests rushed into the street in their pajamas.

The swimming pool atop Mexico City's Hotel Del Passeo spilled water into the dining room, guest chambers, stairways and down elevator shafts.

Motorist Uninjured But Car's Demolished

A Wheeling motorist escaped unhurt but his 1961 sedan was demolished in an accident involving two vehicles at 6:30 a.m. Friday on State Route 2, two and a half miles north of Weirton.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said Frederick L. Games, 26, of Wheeling attempted to pass a tractor - trailer rig when he lost control, swerved into the truck, and struck a hillside.

Driver of the rig was Ward Hood, 26, of Florence, who also escaped unhurt. The rig received about $100 damage, deputies said.

Games was charged with hazardous driving and fined $10 and costs at a hearing before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

Highlights of Friday's session of the 19th annual conference of District 20 of the United Steelworkers at Midland included the election of four wage policy committee, a detailed report on the district by Kay Kluz of Ambridge, district director, and also a pictorial report by films.

About 307 delegates from the district's 37 locals attended Friday. During the early afternoon, balloting was held on four members to the union's powerful advisory and ratifying committee.

for an all-out attack on the twin capitals of Laos that would give them complete control over this landlocked southeast Asia kingdom.

The Defense Ministry charged Soviet - made Ilyushin transport planes were rushing rebel troops and arms to newly won territory in an apparent buildup for a thrust at Luang Prabang in the heart of Laos and the administrative capital of Vientiane to the south.

The Reds were reported beefing up bases at Muong Sing, 110 miles northwest of Luang Prabang; and at Van Vieng, 100 miles above Vientiane.

King Savang Vathana appealed to Laotian leaders to try to solve the issue peacefully.

The king did not name the leaders in his throne speech to the National Assembly at Vientiane. But he clearly directed his remarks at the rebels who have surged more than 100 miles past the year-old cease-fire line to the border of Thailand.

The United States was openly concerned over the rebel surge. President Kennedy was reported planning to bolster American Military might in Southeast Asia to meet the threat to the central area.

Babb Commends Staff In C. Of C. Member Appeal

Alvin T. Babb, president of the Chamber of Commerce, today commended 50 volunteer workers for their "effective and enthusiastic" efforts in a Chamber membership drive that began Monday.

Although the campaign officially was scheduled to close Friday, it will be extended into early next week to allow some of the workers to complete their lists of calls on prospective members, Babb said.

Since a number of the workers will not submit final reports for a few days, the Chamber is unable to announce the number of members signed in the campaign, he explained.

Babb also commented that the campaign workers "were well-received" by the prospective members on whom they called.

The drive began Monday following a luncheon at which the team workers received final instructions and lists of prospects. The Chamber, seeking to push its membership over 500, made calls on 100 business and professional men and manufacturers.

Quake Rocks Mexico; Kills 2, Hurts 100

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An earthquake believed set off by a rumbling volcano struck south central Mexico Friday, killing two persons, injuring 100 others, causing widespread damage and spreading panic. Mexico is teeming with tourists at this time of the year, but first reports said no foreigners were injured.

The quake rocked Mexico City for nine seconds causing one man to die of shock and injured 30 other persons and ranged as far as 190 miles south of the capital.

(The shock which hit at 9:12 a.m. EST was described as "one of the largest earthquakes I have ever recorded" by Dr. J. C. Debremaecker, associate professor of geology at Rice University in Houston, Tex.)

Authorities said two persons perished when a church wing collapsed in Chilapa, about 60 miles from the Pacific Coast resort of Acapulco, one of the hardest hit areas. Thirty-six persons were injured in Acapulco.

The government launched an investigation into reports from around Nuxco, near Acapulco, that a volcano triggered the quake. A potential volcano had been reported earlier in an area about 60 miles east of Acapulco where farmhands said water had boiled up in local streams killing animals.

The earth shocks cracked ceilings and shattered windows in Mexico City's Continental Hilton Hotel badly damaged by a 1957 quake. Many frightened guests rushed into the street in their pajamas.

The swimming pool atop Mexico City's Hotel Del Passeo spilled water into the dining room, guest chambers, stairways and down elevator shafts.

Motorist Uninjured But Car's Demolished

A Wheeling motorist escaped unhurt but his 1961 sedan was demolished in an accident involving two vehicles at 6:30 a.m. Friday on State Route 2, two and a half miles north of Weirton.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said Frederick L. Games, 26, of Wheeling attempted to pass a tractor - trailer rig when he lost control, swerved into the truck, and struck a hillside.

Driver of the rig was Ward Hood, 26, of Florence, who also escaped unhurt. The rig received about $100 damage, deputies said.

Games was charged with hazardous driving and fined $10 and costs at a hearing before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

2 Unions OK Strike At Youngstown Paper

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — The Vindicator Printing Co., publisher of the Youngstown Vindicator, announced Friday that the Mailers and Typographical Unions have voted to authorize a strike against the newspaper.

It was reported that Mailers' Union, Local 80, which has been working without a contract for almost a year, voted 19 to 3 for a strike and that International Typographical Union Local 200 voted 101 to 7 for strike authorization. No date for a walkout was set by either union.

The typographical union says it has been offered a wage increase of $3 a week for the first year and the same amount the second year in a two-year contract.

Ex-Sheriff Asks $3,447

Clayton H. Hobbs of Chester, former Hancock County sheriff, has filed suit in Circuit Court in New Cumberland, alleging $3,447.95 is due him in tax commissions.

Named defendants are James Hill, whom Hobbs succeeded as sheriff in 1957, County Commissioners William C. Graham, Lyle F. Virden and James Finley, and Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny.

Hill served as sheriff from Jan. 1, 1953 to Dec. 31, 1956, with Hobbs serving from Jan. 1, 1957 to Dec. 31, 1960. Sheriff Manypenny took office Jan. 1, 1960.

In his suit for a declaratory judgment, Hobbs claims that when he went into office, he was instructed by County Court and the West Virginia Sheriffs' Association to pay Hill tax money for one-half year amounting to $3,447.95. He abided by the decision, Hobbs says.

However, when the money collected by Sheriff Manypenny was due ex-sheriff Hobbs, the county commissioners, who comprise County Court, and Sheriff Manypenny reneged and the money has not been paid as yet, Hobbs claims.

The petition says Hobbs believes he is entitled to the partial tax commission and should be reimbursed the amount that he had paid to the sheriff whom he succeeded.

Hobbs also asks for an interpretation of an agreement made by Hill and County Court wherein succeeding sheriffs after 1957 will receive commissions on a four-year basis of tax collections.

Cigarette tax is second only to income tax as the source of tax revenue in the United States.

Navy To Discontinue 3-Year Enlistments

Chief Machinist's Mate Kenneth Brooks, city Navy recruiter, said present plans call for an end to the experimental three-year enlistments on June 30. As of July 1, all enlistments will be for minority, four or six years.

The Navy recruiting office can now enlist a man 12 days prior to his high school graduation and then send him home immediately for a 12-day leave. At the expiration of leave, the man will be sent to recruit training at either Great Lakes, Ill., or San Diego, Calif., whichever he elects.

Information on three - year enlistments, the advance leave policy or the high school graduate training program may be obtained by calling FU. 6-4502 or visiting the recruiting office in the City Hall.

Jury Called In Trial At New Cumberland

A panel of petit jurors has been summoned to report Tuesday morning at 9:30 at the Hancock County Courthouse in New Cumberland for the trial of Edward Louis Carrothers, 21, of Rayland R.D. 2.

Meanwhile, a trial scheduled Thursday for Wilbert Robison, 27, of Weirton was continued to May 25. He is charged with felonious stabbing of Joseph Jordan, 20, of Weirton, March 4 while on Route 66 south of Newell.

2 Unions OK Strike At Youngstown Paper

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — The Vindicator Printing Co., publisher of the Youngstown Vindicator, announced Friday that the Mailers and Typographical Unions have voted to authorize a strike against the newspaper.

It was reported that Mailers' Union, Local 80, which has been working without a contract for almost a year, voted 19 to 3 for a strike and that International Typographical Union Local 200 voted 101 to 7 for strike authorization. No date for a walkout was set by either union.

The typographical union says it has been offered a wage increase of $3 a week for the first year and the same amount the second year in a two-year contract.

Ex-Sheriff Asks $3,447

Clayton H. Hobbs of Chester, former Hancock County sheriff, has filed suit in Circuit Court in New Cumberland, alleging $3,447.95 is due him in tax commissions.

Named defendants are James Hill, whom Hobbs succeeded as sheriff in 1957, County Commissioners William C. Graham, Lyle F. Virden and James Finley, and Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny.

Hill served as sheriff from Jan. 1, 1953 to Dec. 31, 1956, with Hobbs serving from Jan. 1, 1957 to Dec. 31, 1960. Sheriff Manypenny took office Jan. 1, 1960.

In his suit for a declaratory judgment, Hobbs claims that when he went into office, he was instructed by County Court and the West Virginia Sheriffs' Association to pay Hill tax money for one-half year amounting to $3,447.95. He abided by the decision, Hobbs says.

However, when the money collected by Sheriff Manypenny was due ex-sheriff Hobbs, the county commissioners, who comprise County Court, and Sheriff Manypenny reneged and the money has not been paid as yet, Hobbs claims.

The petition says Hobbs believes he is entitled to the partial tax commission and should be reimbursed the amount that he had paid to the sheriff whom he succeeded.

Hobbs also asks for an interpretation of an agreement made by Hill and County Court wherein succeeding sheriffs after 1957 will receive commissions on a four-year basis of tax collections.

Cigarette tax is second only to income tax as the source of tax revenue in the United States.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Some of my highly - polished furniture has acquired "bloom," that ugly gray discoloration. How can I cope with this?

A. This often disappears when wiped with a soft cloth wrung out of a warm water containing a little vinegar (one tablespoon of vinegar to a quart of water). Wipe dry with a clean, soft cloth. Also, an application of liquid wax often accomplishes the same result.

Q. How can I keep the colors in cottons from running when laundering?

A. Stir into the first suds in which they are to be washed, one tablespoon of black pepper, or three tablespoons of turpentine.

Q. Have you any suggestions for anchoring my door mat and preventing its being constantly shifted and kicked all over the porch?

A. Try this idea: Use a couple of large battery clips, obtainable at any hardware store. Attach the hole at one end of these clips by means of screw eyes to the side of the door sill, then use the clamp end of the clip for securing your door mat.

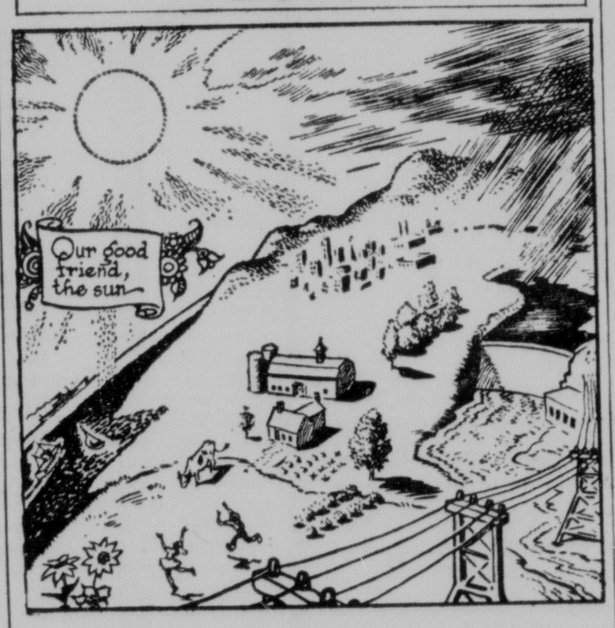

Q. How can I make a mushroom chowder?

A. Combine condensed cream of mushroom soup with one can of light cream, one cup of sauteed sliced mushrooms, a few tablespoons of lightly sauteed onion, and sieved hard-boiled egg. Heat and serve. It's good!

Q. How can I minimize the dripping of candles?

A. Place your candles in the refrigerator for a couple of days prior to using. They'll burn twice as long, and will have a minimum of dripping.

Junior Editors Quiz on LIGHT

QUESTION: What is light?

ANSWER: For hundreds of years men have tried to answer this question. Sir Isaac Newton, born in 1642, concluded that light rays were fast moving streams of very minute particles moving away from a light source, such as the sun. Later, came the theory that light moves by waves, and that there are a number of different kinds of waves in sunlight, in some of which the vibrations are closer together and in others farther apart. Light results from one speed of vibration; others give waves still others, cosmic rays and X-rays. Scientists could not see how Newton's theory of the particles could be made to fit into this idea of the waves. But then came the discovery of atomic enery. It was realized that the sun is slowly burning by atomic fusion, that hydrogen atoms are continually crashing into each other, creating enormous amounts of energy. This energy comes bursting out of the sun in little packets called "photons." And since it has been found that photons travel across space in waves, it turns out that good old Sir Isaac's particle theory can be fitted into modern theories, after all. The photons stream towards us at over 186,000 miles a second.

FOR YOU TO DO: The sun's rays not only give us light to see with but they also warm the earth and evaporate moisture from sea water so this can rise and form clouds which fall as rain, giving us our drinking water. What other valuable uses of sunlight can you find shown in our picture?

'Police Week' Program Due

A special program has been arranged for observance of "Police Officers Week" in East Liverpool beginning Monday.

It's part of a nationwide observance set up by a Congressional resolution "in recognition of the contribution the police officers have made to our civilization through their dedicated efforts in enforcing the laws."

Locally, the observance has been proclaimed by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, who cited the officers as "a symbol of law and order."

The police department and Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29 are in charge of the local program.

Monday will be observed as "Peace Officers Memorial Day" in honor of law enforcement officials killed or disabled in line of duty.

The department will place a big wreath on the front lawn at City Hall as part of the memorial observance. Each policeman will wear a black and white mourning rosette on his badge and huge streamers of black and white crepe will be placed over the entrance to headquarters in tribute to deceased officers.

In another facet of the observance, the officers will select one motorist each day next week as an outstanding safe driver. The driver will be asked to appear at City Hall at 10 a.m. the following day to receive a letter of commendation and appreciation from Chief Americo J. Radeschi.

The week's activities will be climaxed Saturday night, May 19, when Grand Ole Opry country music performers from Nashville, Tenn., will appear at Memorial Auditorium under the auspices of the FOP. Two-hour shows will be presented at 7 and 9:30.

Another Meeting Set At Peerless

The third in a series of meetings on a dispute over plant working rules will be held Tuesday by representatives of the Peerless Clay Co. and the United Brick and Clayworkers Union.

Union and management are scheduled to meet with Hardin Roach of Akron, a federal mediator, in a new attempt to iron out disagreement over plant working rules which has prolonged a strike of 130 employes.

Edward (Ted) Bauer of Wellsville, international union representative, said the meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in the Hotel Wilk in Wellsville.

Peerless employes have been idled by the strike since April 11 although a new two-year contract was signed April 21. The old contract expired April 7.

Despite signing of the new contract, the employes have continued on strike pending settlement of certain plant rules.

3 Motorists Receive License Suspensions

LISBON — A one - year license suspension was ordered for a Salem area girl in one of four traffic hearings held this week at the Courthouse.

The license of Constance Bowman, 17, was suspended for speeding — her third offense since April 1961. A 30-day suspension was ordered Nov. 30 and a warning was issued in April 1961 for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Jack D. Farmer, 17, of Salem R.D. 3 and Richard David Ashead, 17, of Salem each received 30-day suspensions and Larry Lee Mulch, 17, of Salem was fined $20 for speeding. All were cited

'Police Week' Program Due

A special program has been arranged for observance of "Police Officers Week" in East Liverpool beginning Monday.

It's part of a nationwide observance set up by a Congressional resolution "in recognition of the contribution the police officers have made to our civilization through their dedicated efforts in enforcing the laws."

Locally, the observance has been proclaimed by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, who cited the officers as "a symbol of law and order."

The police department and Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29 are in charge of the local program.

Monday will be observed as "Peace Officers Memorial Day" in honor of law enforcement officials killed or disabled in line of duty.

The department will place a big wreath on the front lawn at City Hall as part of the memorial observance. Each policeman will wear a black and white mourning rosette on his badge and huge streamers of black and white crepe will be placed over the entrance to headquarters in tribute to deceased officers.

In another facet of the observance, the officers will select one motorist each day next week as an outstanding safe driver. The driver will be asked to appear at City Hall at 10 a.m. the following day to receive a letter of commendation and appreciation from Chief Americo J. Radeschi.

The week's activities will be climaxed Saturday night, May 19, when Grand Ole Opry country music performers from Nashville, Tenn., will appear at Memorial Auditorium under the auspices of the FOP. Two-hour shows will be presented at 7 and 9:30.

Another Meeting Set At Peerless

The third in a series of meetings on a dispute over plant working rules will be held Tuesday by representatives of the Peerless Clay Co. and the United Brick and Clayworkers Union.

Union and management are scheduled to meet with Hardin Roach of Akron, a federal mediator, in a new attempt to iron out disagreement over plant working rules which has prolonged a strike of 130 employes.

Edward (Ted) Bauer of Wellsville, international union representative, said the meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in the Hotel Wilk in Wellsville.

Peerless employes have been idled by the strike since April 11 although a new two-year contract was signed April 21. The old contract expired April 7.

Despite signing of the new contract, the employes have continued on strike pending settlement of certain plant rules.

3 Motorists Receive License Suspensions

LISBON — A one - year license suspension was ordered for a Salem area girl in one of four traffic hearings held this week at the Courthouse.

The license of Constance Bowman, 17, was suspended for speeding — her third offense since April 1961. A 30-day suspension was ordered Nov. 30 and a warning was issued in April 1961 for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Jack D. Farmer, 17, of Salem R.D. 3 and Richard David Ashead, 17, of Salem each received 30-day suspensions and Larry Lee Mulch, 17, of Salem was fined $20 for speeding. All were cited

How We Track Down Bond Thieves

When you buy a U.S. Savings Bond, you've put your money in a safe place—just ask the crooks who've stolen some

By JAMES J. ROWLEY, Chief, United States Secret Service

A DAPPER GENTLEMAN handed several United States Savings Bonds to a woman bank teller in Louisville, Ky.

"I want to cash these," he said calmly. "I'm with the Veterans Administration."

The ruse had worked before. Willis Edwin Hirsch already had cashed and forged 18 Savings Bonds in Mississippi. Now his luck was about to run out. In checking the Bonds, the lady cashier noted what she thought were erasures.

"And I wonder why a Government official would cash these while traveling?" she asked a superior.

By this time, however, Hirsch had become suspicious and fled. He didn't waste time, though. Soon he appeared at a second Louisville bank with the same story. He hovered nearby as a bank official took the Bonds and made a telephone call—to the local Secret Service office of the U. S. Treasury. Through the Secret Service, the first bank already had broadcast an alarm about the suspicious gentleman. Hirsch caught enough of the conversation to send him scurrying to Mexico.

We didn't lose complete track of our man, though. Soon Mexican authorities were telling us Hirsch was in Tijuana, then Acapulco. He was having a wonderful time on stolen money. And we? Well, we had to wait patiently, but we knew we'd have a showdown soon.

The Treasury Department sells about 85 to 90 million individual Savings Bonds a year, totaling $4½ billion. Right now and until June 30, it is conducting a Freedom Savings Drive, the biggest since the Korean War. If you buy these Bonds, you're putting money in one of the safest investments. Most criminals leave Savings Bonds behind while stealing jewelry and negotiable securities. They have good reason; it's hard to cash Bonds, and if they are cashed illegally, the Secret Service starts a patient but endless hunt for the criminals.

LATELY, some not-so-smart thieves have begun grabbing Savings Bonds—not much in relation to the total invested but still amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Hirsch was one of these, and his end is fairly typical.

A few weeks after his disappearance, we got a telephone call from a bellhop in a Laredo, Texas, hotel. "I saw a picture of this guy Hirsch," the bellhop told us. "I think he just checked in here."

We sent two agents to the hotel to check the tip. We didn't want to make any mistakes, so the agents first showed Hirsch's photograph to waitresses in the dining room. As they studied the picture, a dapper, sun-tanned man strode into the room. The agents spotted him just as he realized who they were.

Our two agents already were on a dead run across the dining room. Chairs tumbled over, a table went crashing. Hirsch made the lobby, scattering onlookers in his fierce flight for freedom. He got as far as the door when one of the agents let loose a perfect flying tackle. The two men slammed heavily onto the floor.

Hirsch admitted cashing $67,000 worth of bonds. In his luggage we found seven $1,000 Bonds which had been stolen in the Midwest. He claimed he had bought them from the actual thieves. Hirsch is now serving a 10-year term for forgery.

As I said, Savings Bonds are a safe place for your money to grow, but you can add to that safety with some precautions of your own.

1. Keep your Bonds in a secure place; a safe-deposit box is ideal.

2. In a separate place, keep a record of each Bond number, just in case your Bonds are lost, stolen, or burned. With such information, you can get a Bond reissued with the original date of purchase, or receive cash value if you desire.

3. When cashing in Savings Bonds, cooperate with bank officials as they check your identification. Sometimes, Bond holders resent these checks which, after all, are for your own protection.

THOMAS BARTKOVSKY'S case dramatizes this point. He entered a bank and attempted to cash 52 Savings Bonds. Most people about to redeem an amount like that are proud and full of plans for travel or spending sprees.

Not Bartkovsky. He seemed shamed by his nest egg and obviously had no plan other than to collect his money and get out of the bank. Officials became suspicious and started the crackdown on a ring that had forged and cashed $68,050 in stolen Savings Bonds.

It didn't take much to trip this ring, just a suspicious bank official—but it was enough to send some ring members to a Federal penitentiary for 10 years.

GEN. LEO FITZJOHN, ret., late of His Majesty's Hussars, creaked down the huge staircase, his paunchy figure stiff with age and lumbago.

The director yelled "Cut!" but the general didn't pause. He lumbered up to a beautiful blonde in a cool, green sheath and hoisted an arm around her shoulders.

"Hello, Darling," wheezed Peter Sellers. "Good of you to pick me up."

This baggy-eyed old general wasn't the same husband Mrs. Anne Sellers had driven home from work a few weeks earlier. But then, she gets a new husband every three or four months—all named Peter Sellers.

Sellers, 36, is the one-man film festival who has become the hottest thing in British movies. His uncanny ability to be dozens of different people has producers everywhere clamoring for him.

But Peter Sellers is as many people off screen as on. Take the man Mrs. Sellers met that evening on the set of "The Waltz of the Toreadors," one of Peter's recent movies. That was Sellers the Actor. There aren't many like him. For Peter acts with unbelievable intensity, and almost literally becomes the character he plays.

Sellers moves, talks, reacts, and even thinks like the character he's portraying. On the "Toreadors" set, the director and fellow-actors call him "General," not "Peter." Off camera as well as on, Peter's clipped military voice and creaky movements are the general's, not his own.

The trouble is that Sellers can't quit. He takes off his character's make-up at night, but he can't shake the character itself. When he played an Indian doctor in "The Millionairess," he used his Indian accent on his family. He bossed them around while winning the British Academy Award as a union-shop steward in "I'm All Right, Jack" and a period his wife recalls as "awful" while he played a sadistic villain in "Never Let Go."

ABOUT HIS own personality, Sellers insists that he's a "minus quantity." But his friends would put up an argument about that—for Peter Sellers is just as fascinating a character, or characters, off stage as he is on.

Take Sellers the Eccentric. This particular Sellers has a passion for gadgets. Once he bought several miniature espresso coffee-making machines. Nobody ever learned why. Another time he brought home a life-sized mechanical elephant because "it's a nice thing to have."

So are cars. And Peter buys and sells cars as other people trade postage stamps.

He has had "well over 50" cars in the past dozen years, he admits. Some he keeps only a few days; one he owned for 15 minutes—just long enough to drive it around the corner. His current automotive love is a $22,585 drop-head Bentley.

Witness another of Peter's private lives, that of Village Squire. For two years, Sellers played lord of a 16th-century Tudor manor house in a village 23 miles north of London. Only a short time ago, he described his 400-year-old home with affection, but two weeks later he put it up for sale to move closer to London.

This sudden decision involved more than throwing a few things into a suitcase. It meant uprooting himself, his wife, and the children, Michael, 7, and Sarah Jane, 4—not to mention several dogs, cats, tropical fish, a canary, a 500-foot model railroad, and what has been called "the largest set of trap drums in captivity."

Playing jazz drums is one of the amazing variety of things Sellers does well: he used to be a professional at it. He's also an expert photographer, a hi-fi bug, a blue-belt-rank judo expert, a "very, very keen" cricket player, and a superb rally-entering auto driver.

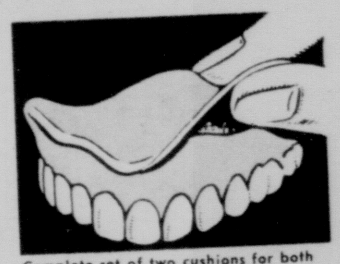

PETER SELLERS the Mimic is yet another creature of fantastic talents. He is a master of uncounted dialects and can mimic anyone he meets. In fact, he got his first big job through a mimic's trick. He telephoned a BBC producer and spoke in the voices of two top BBC stars, who wildly praised a young vaudeville actor named Sellers. Peter was hired at once, and before long he was playing dozens of voices on a zany radio program called "The Goon Show," which became a national institution overnight.

Many people still consider Peter goony. A Sellers creation like "The Running, Jumping, and Standing Still Film" bears them out. So do Peter's occasional television shows, named with characteristic wackiness: "A Show Called Fred," "Son of Fred," or "Yes, It's the Cathode-Ray Tube Show!"

His idol is Sir Alec Guinness. Sellers got his first big movie part as a member of the Guinness gang in "The Ladykillers," and, like Guinness, Peter made his name doing multiple roles, as in "The Mouse That Roared," and in comedy parts. Both men deny that Sellers is "a second Alec Guinness," although a knighthood seems a sure bet for Sellers, too, some day.

But first, Mrs. Sellers will have to pick up a lot more husbands at work. And only two things are certain about them: they'll be a wildly varied lot (though they won't include Napoleon, Freud, a garbage collector, or King Henry VIII—roles which Peter has recently turned down), and they'll all be named Peter Sellers.

Phony Accidents Are Costing You!

Has your auto insurance gone up? Put much of the blame on the cheats who fake collisions—and "honest" citizens who kite damages from real ones

ON A HIGHWAY near Fredericktown, Mo., a young driver whipped in front of a big semitrailer and slammed on his brakes.

The truck smashed the old car as if it were a bowling pin, flipping it into the ditch. Moments later, as a highway patrolman lifted the driver, his wife, and their nephew from the wreckage, they complained with practiced anguish of paralysis and terrible pain. This was nothing new to them; they had deliberately caused at least 23 similar accidents in nine states.

In New York City, a respected businessman drove his slightly damaged auto into a garage and ordered "the works." Drawing from a reservoir of shattered windows, smashed fenders, dented doors, and other damaged parts hidden on the garage roof, a repairman converted the car into a total wreck before a claims adjuster arrived. The owner not only "escaped" the $100-deductible clause in his collision policy, but had enough profit left after splitting with the garageman to cover a bill for his wife's prenatal care.

Near Wewoka, Okla., a salesman whose car windshield had been cracked for months cruised back and forth past a construction site until he was passed by a loaded gravel truck. He flagged the driver, yelled that falling gravel had broken his windshield, indignantly demanded the name of the trucker's insurance company, and collected enough money—for the 37th time—to meet the monthly payment on his car.

In each of these cases, sharp detective work exposed the principals as operators in today's fastest-growing racket: automobile-insurance mulcting. They are just a few of the legions of citizens—many of them respected and otherwise honest—who are faking injuries, "puffing" repair claims, and rigging accidents in order to siphon the multibillion-dollar pool of insurance funds. For every chiseler exposed and convicted, authorities say hundreds of others are in business with at least temporary impunity. Their vicious schemes, in the words of one attorney, "have reached the point of a national scandal."

According to Robert Chapman, manager of the Chicago claims bureau of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, spurious auto claims have mounted at the rate of 10 percent every year for the last decade. Some experts charge that three out of every four auto claims now are "tainted with fraud." This unprecedented chicanery already is bilking the insurance industry of an estimated $350-420 millions yearly —with the total expected to climb.

And if you buy car insurance, the appalling loss is landing squarely in your pocketbook.

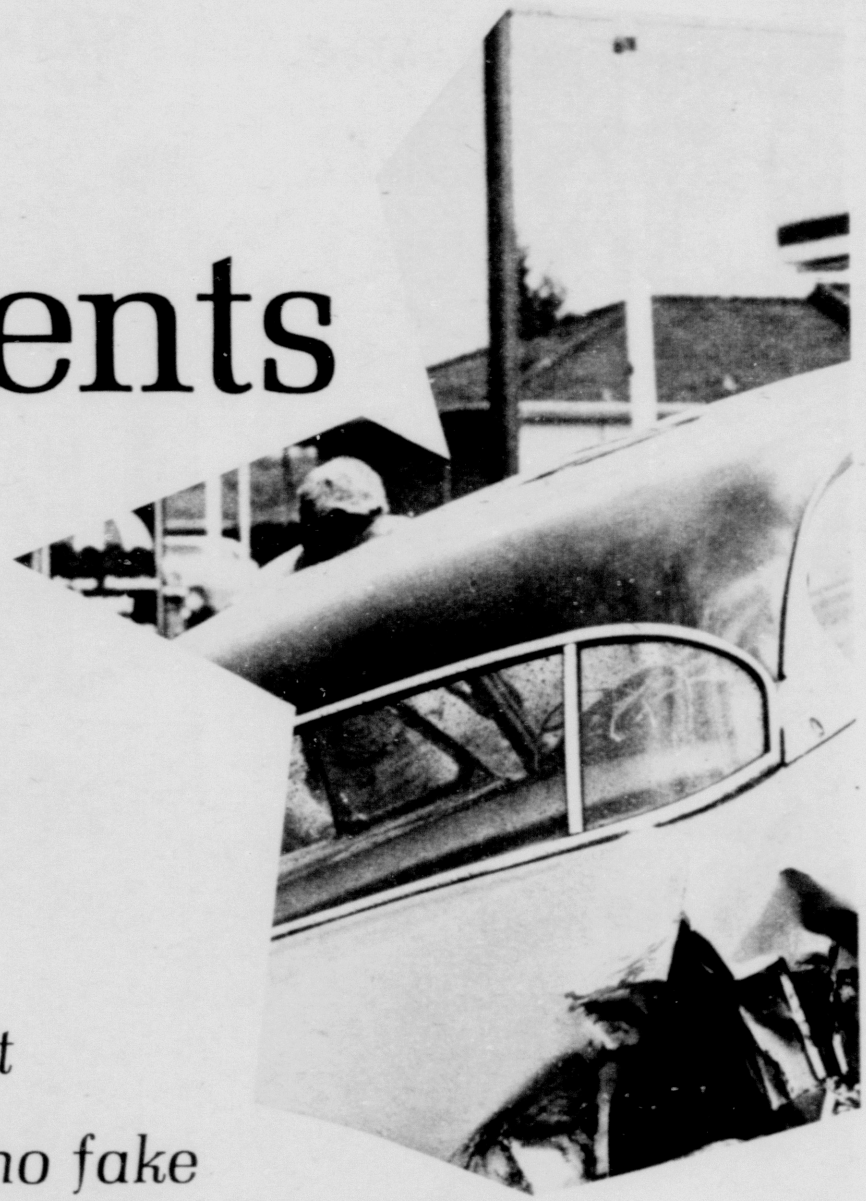

William Davis of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, one of the agencies tracking down insurance cheats, explains: "Whenever a person defrauds an insurance company, he imposes a direct tax on the reputable buyer of insurance. The dishonest claimant who gets paid is largely responsible for boosting insurance costs."

In about half our states last year, auto insurers won state approval to hike rates. More raises are expected this year. Increases reflect poor accident rates, inflation, high jury awards, and a host of other factors in addition to fraud. Yet, according to numerous authorities we consulted, your auto insurance costs probably could be decreased by 20-50 percent if every claimant were honest!

INFLATED COSTS, however, are not the only threat to you from accident fakers. Many use ordinary citizens as pawns; you may not only help them dupe an insurance company but suffer painful injury and sustain extensive damage to your car as well.

Hundreds of innocent motorists recently discovered how they had been victimized after authorities smashed a network of Chicago-based fraud rings whose tentacles reached into Buffalo, Toledo, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Des Moines, Oklahoma City, San Diego, and other communities. The rings' usual modus operandi

Come on Out!

By Mike Morse

Put a cloth on a table. Place a dime in the center and two nickels on each side of it. Put a glass over the dime with the edges resting on the two nickels.

The stunt is to bring out the dime without touching it, the nickels, or the glass.

Do it this way: scratch the cloth with your forefinger very close to the glass. Pretty soon out comes the dime!

Don't Get Alarmed

By Robert Besch

This stunt is great for a party. Players kneel at a starting line with hands clasped behind them. Beside each player is an empty pop bottle. Place a row of paper cups (one for each person) about 10 feet away, and put a gumdrop in each cup. A timer sets an alarm clock. When it goes off, players must scoot on their knees towards the cups, keeping hands behind them, and pick up the gumdrops with their teeth. Cups can be tipped over. Then they hurry back to the starting line and place the gumdrops in the bottles—still no hands. Those who make it before the alarm stops ringing are winners. The first to succeed, of course, should get the biggest prize!

See Anything in That Glass?

By Betty Kahn

Fill a glass with water, but secretly place a penny beneath the glass, and then cover the glass with a saucer.

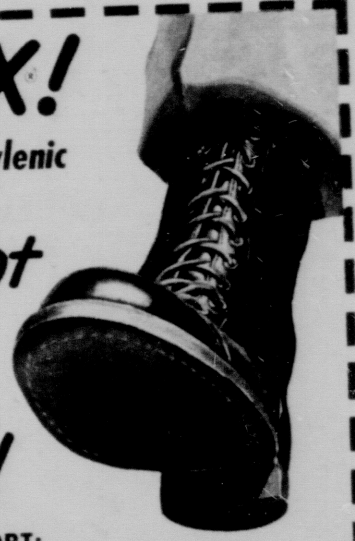

Ask your friends (looking at the glass from the sides), "Do you see anything in this glass of water?" Of course they will say, "No."

Now take off the cover and let them look down from directly above the glass. There they will see the coin seemingly inside the glass of water. A good trick!

By CHARLES and BONNIE REMSBERG was for four or more conspirators to pull their car ahead of an unwary driver who tended to follow closely or who had been drinking, then to slam to a stop so suddenly that the victim's car crashed into them.

Feigning "invisible" neck and back injuries, they would collect insurance settlements ranging from a few hundred to several thousand dollars. Investigators estimate the rings fleeced the insurance-buying public of nearly $1 million and inflicted untold injury and damage on victims.

Another popular gimmick is for pedestrian fakers to walk into the side of moving cars or fall behind trucks that are backing out of loading zones. On the basis of injuries self-inflicted with razor blades or cheese graters, the "victims" collect for being "knocked down."

Personal injuries are the true "bonanza" in insurance racketeering. The increasing proclivity of juries to award huge sums for personal injuries—sometimes far out of line with what the facts warrant—has made insurance companies reluctant to go to court. "They now manage to avoid litigation nine times out of 10 by reaching compromise settlements with claimants," says Thomas Reynolds, general manager of the Illinois Insurance Information Service.

Accident fakers thrive on this willingness to settle quickly, usually punctuating injury complaints with threats to sue. And according to the Insurance Information Institute, they undoubtedly are greatly to blame for the fact that underwriters have gone in the red on bodily-injury liability policies every year but two since 1951.

Some persons will go to frightening extremes to collect bodily-injury claims. In Missouri, a ring once operated in which accomplices amputated arms, inflicted beatings with rubber hoses, and mutilated each other with razors. Most claimants, however, prefer to fake injuries or accidents—or even operate entirely on paper.

FOR EXAMPLE, a city councilman and aspirant for mayor, who also happened to be an insurance adjuster, set up one lucrative system in Youngstown, Ohio.

Using aliases, he wrote policies for fictitious persons, then drafted injury claims against them on the basis of fabricated accidents. Settlements were mailed to various bank accounts he maintained under the assumed names. Before long he had five secretaries to handle the bookkeeping. His biggest phantom crash was worth $60,000 and allegedly involved four cars carrying nine passengers; lesser ones totaled some $200,000.

Like a multitude of other claims swindlers, this man had the help of an unscrupulous doctor. Such physicians, often working closely with unethical lawyers, are usually essential in attesting to trumped-up injuries and submitting wildly exaggerated bills to inflate settlements.

An investigation of fraud rings in the New York area, which so far has resulted in license revocations for more than a dozen doctors and disbarment of about 30 attorneys, is revealing numerous instances in which $10 doctor visits have been magnified to $500 fees.

The fake doctor also is invaluable to the type of chiseler who actually troubles insurance companies more than the professional faker. This is the ordinary guy—your neighbor, perhaps—who wouldn't filch from his son's piggybank but who tries to turn a legitimate accident into a key to Fort Knox.

Such attempts are almost as common as accidents themselves, insurance men say. "Otherwise-honest people seem to don a new ethical shirt when they deal with an insurance company," explains one claims investigator. "They feel an insurance corporation is open game if they can cheat without getting caught."

PERHAPS A DRIVER has his first collision in 20 years and by some quirk of logic he reasons that the insurance company owes him something for all the time he was accident-free. Or maybe he's an accident repeater, tired of shelling out the $100 deductible. With the help of a cooperative doctor and a garage owner, he pads his medical and repair bills, and his misfortune becomes a thing of profit.

Such a man, of course, rarely classes himself with professional looters—but he should, and so should you. While individually his exaggerated claim may be a mere drop in the fraud bucket, insurance authorities say that when the pattern is multiplied by the number of times it occurs, the deceit of "honest" persons actually looms more extensive than that of outright swindlers!

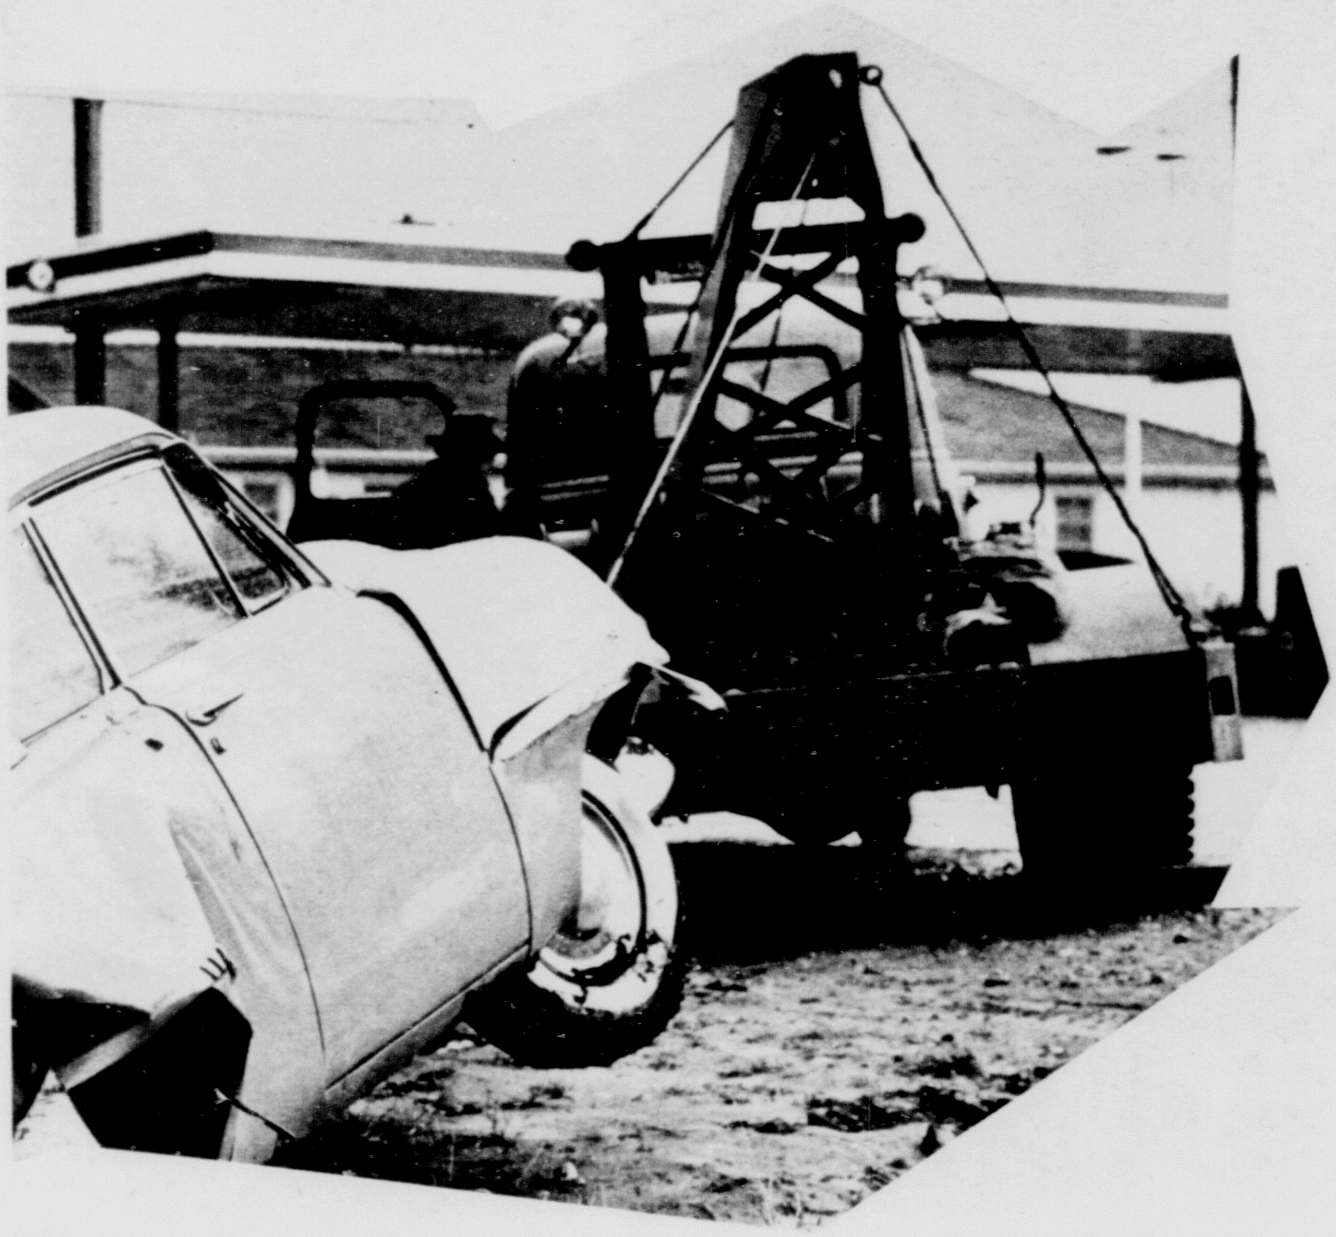

Fully aware of the growing fraud bite, insurance companies are not standing by idly. Many are beefing up investigative staffs, examining all claims more closely, and urging changes in judicial procedure designed to expose exaggerated personal injuries.

The claims bureau of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies maintains an increasingly successful snare for false-claims artists—an index which classifies and permanently catalogs every personal-injury claim reported. This index puts agents on the trail of claimants whose accidents or frequency of claims hints of fraud. The system is designed so that a faker often finds it impossible to escape detection even by using aliases and moving from city to city.

Can you help the bureau and other investigative agencies stamp out the fraud racket? Yes, authorities say.

First, you can be honest in your own claims, realizing that in the long run you'll pay for deceit through higher insurance costs. Also, you can report anyone you know who is chiseling or anyone who offers you dubious deals. And finally, if you are involved in an accident that seems rigged or in which the other parties seem overly anxious for a quick settlement, you can insist that your insurance company delay any claims payment, pending a thorough investigation.

Such insistence may keep you from becoming the next victim of these modern highway robbers.

"Otherwise-honest people seem to don a new ethical shirt when they deal with an insurance company," explains one claims investigator. "They feel an insurance corporation is open game if they can cheat without getting caught."

PERHAPS A DRIVER has his first collision in 20 years and by some quirk of logic he reasons that the insurance company owes him something for all the time he was accident-free. Or maybe he's an accident repeater, tired of shelling out the $100 deductible. With the help of a cooperative doctor and a garage owner, he pads his medical and repair bills, and his misfortune becomes a thing of profit.

Such a man, of course, rarely classes himself with professional looters—but he should, and so should you. While individually his exaggerated claim may be a mere drop in the fraud bucket, insurance authorities say that when the pattern is multiplied by the number of times it occurs, the deceit of "honest" persons actually looms more extensive than that of outright swindlers!

Fully aware of the growing fraud bite, insurance companies are not standing by idly. Many are beefing up investigative staffs, examining all claims more closely, and urging changes in judicial procedure designed to expose exaggerated personal injuries.

The claims bureau of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies maintains an increasingly successful snare for false-claims artists—an index which classifies and permanently catalogs every personal-injury claim reported. This index puts agents on the trail of claimants whose accidents or frequency of claims hints of fraud. The system is designed so that a faker often finds it impossible to escape detection even by using aliases and moving from city to city.

Can you help the bureau and other investigative agencies stamp out the fraud racket? Yes, authorities say.

First, you can be honest in your own claims, realizing that in the long run you'll pay for deceit through higher insurance costs. Also, you can report anyone you know who is chiseling or anyone who offers you dubious deals. And finally, if you are involved in an accident that seems rigged or in which the other parties seem overly anxious for a quick settlement, you can insist that your insurance company delay any claims payment, pending a thorough investigation.

Such insistence may keep you from becoming the next victim of these modern highway robbers.

The radiant bride-to-be listened to an older friend recount her first days of marriage. "It's all so clear," the friend said softly. "He had bought a little home in the suburbs, and after our honeymoon he carried me over the threshold. And when we were inside, he said, 'Honey, this is your world, and this is my world.' "

"And you lived happily ever after?" the bride-to-be interrupted.

"Well, not exactly," the friend said. "We've been fighting for the world championship ever since."

The mother threw on a coat and started for the lake. Just as she stepped outside, her other offspring added sorrowfully: "Yeh, every time we start on him, he gets up and tries to walk away!" —John Shotwell

The prospective buyer studied the little Chihuahua admiringly. "What a cute little fellow," he said. "Why do you want to sell him?"

Help your children in schoolwork NOW—when they need it most—with the benefit of expert guidance!

PARENTS AND TEACHERS agree that the time to build a solid foundation for future education is when the student is young. How well a child learns the fundamentals of the three R's and beginning science in grade school may well make the difference between progress and failure throughout his educative years.

But as you know, classrooms are overcrowded everywhere. There's a shortage of teachers. Your children just can't get the special help they need if they fall behind in regular classroom work. You can't expect the school to give your children the individual attention they need to develop the special qualities and abilities every child possesses. The serious consequences of waiting until it's too late are emphasized by the growing number of young people today who "drop out" of high school before graduation.

That leaves it up to you as parents to help your children in the elementary grades when they need your help most. If you don't help, no one else will.

But many parents have serious doubts. They realize teaching methods have changed since they were in school. They're afraid they've forgotten many of the rules learned in grade school.

HOW TO HELP YOUR CHILD IN READING, WRITING, ARITHMETIC & SCIENCE

is a set of home study guides designed to bring you up to date. With these remarkable volumes, written by a successful teacher, you can give your child the guidance he needs to help him build a solid foundation in the basic subjects so vital to his future progress.

The books are arranged by grades. Each grade is divided into two sections. The first section contains a review to refresh your memory about the various school subjects and give you the benefit of the same explanations the modern teacher gives her class.

The second section is a Workbook to be used by your child under your guidance. The contents range from practice decimal problems to such exciting science activities as making a telegraph transmitter or building a weather station.

REVIEWS AND WORKBOOKS enable you to use tested teaching methods to help your child learn and practice the most important subjects from kindergarten through the eighth grade. If your child has trouble with reading, writing, arithmetic or science, you will see exactly where it lies and help him correct it. If, on the other hand, your child is capable of moving ahead faster than his class in a subject, you can help him set his own pace. Both ways, this Set helps you help the teacher help your child fully realize his educational potential.

About the Author—FRIEDA VAN ATTA is a mother of two, with 20 years' experience teaching all eight grades. She graduated from the University of North Dakota and has done graduate work in Chicago and at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Benoits—Susan (at window), Mr. and Mrs. Benoit (seated), Thomas (above them), Louise (far right), and Sandra (foreground)—took in all nine Craigs after their parents' death.

A Full House

She has nine more children than she had last Mother's Day

LAST YEAR, four children celebrated Mother's Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Benoit in Norwalk, Conn.

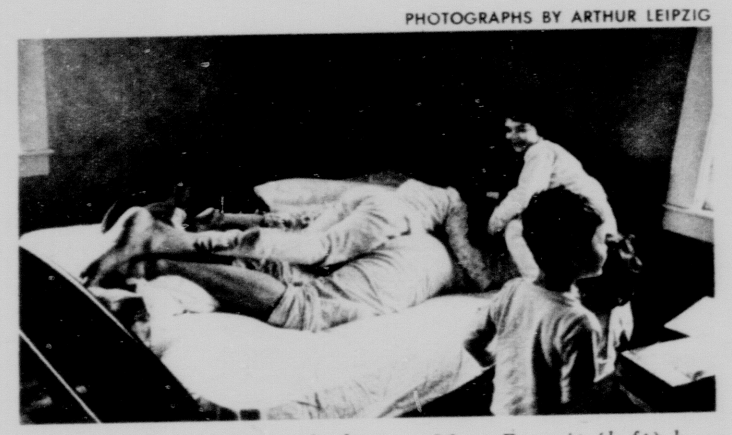

This year there are 13.

The nine additional children are there because of a tragic pre-Christmas auto accident which took the lives of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craig. The orphans, who range in age from 18 months to 18 years, could have been farmed out to various families. But Mrs. Benoit (who is Mrs. Craig's sister) talked with her husband, and they decided to take all the children into their home.

The additional work and responsibility would have overwhelmed some women. But not Mrs. Benoit. She cherishes her own four youngsters—but there is plenty of love left over for the nine orphaned Craig children. She says, "The children are wonderful. They listen to me, they're helpful, they mind. It's not so hard. I just make more of everything."

PHOTOGRAPHS BY ARTHUR LEIPZIG

What Makes a Woman CHOOSE SUCH A LIFE?

You see her walking down the street, and you wonder about her.

She isn't fashionably dressed like other women. She wears no lipstick, no make-up, no high heels or nylons. Instead of a "perky" hat, her head is covered by a hood and veil. Her dress is a billowing, full-length habit that bears little resemblance to feminine fashions.

And as she passes by, you realize that here is a woman different from others not only in dress... but in her entire way of life. Here is one who has deliberately turned her back upon the worldly pleasures which other women seek and enjoy. And perhaps you wonder why a woman should give up all this to become a Catholic nun.

Is it because she is afraid to face the world and its responsibilities? Is it because she lacks talents that other women possess and therefore seeks shelter in the convent? Is she devoid of maternal instinct? Or does she choose the life of a nun because she thinks it is easier and more secure than life in a world of fluctuating economic conditions?

No—a nun who will knock at your door asking for alms for the poor surely is not afraid of the world. A Catholic sister competent to teach in a school... and often highly gifted in the arts and languages... is surely not lacking in talents. Nor can anyone who has seen a Catholic nun mothering the sick in a hospital believe that she is lacking in the maternal instinct.

What is it, then, that prompts a woman to turn her back upon the pleasures and luxuries of the world for a life of poverty, chastity and obedience? How is it that hundreds of thousands of women do this... many of them coming from well-to-do families which could supply their every need and wish? What is the spark that fires their zeal for God, and for humanity?

The answer is that the heart of a nun is filled with the desire to serve God. And that desire is the product of her Catholic Faith. If you doubt the power of Catholic belief, remember this fact . . . the Church is the only institution on earth having large numbers of such consecrated women who devote their lives to Christ.

Perhaps you would not or could not become a nun, or a priest, or a religious of the Catholic Church. Perhaps you would not even want to be a Catholic. But if you wish to inform yourself concerning the teachings and beliefs of the Church which can inspire such magnificent sacrifice and service, write for Free Pamphlet FM-25. It will be sent in a plain wrapper and nobody will call on you.

If you doubt the power of Catholic belief, remember this fact... the Church is the only institution on earth having large numbers of such consecrated women who devote their lives to Christ.

Perhaps you would not or could not become a nun, or a priest, or a religious of the Catholic Church. Perhaps you would not even want to be a Catholic. But if you wish to inform yourself concerning the teachings and beliefs of the Church which can inspire such magnificent sacrifice and service, write for Free Pamphlet FM-25. It will be sent in a plain wrapper and nobody will call on you.

Party Parmesan Spirals

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN. TO BAKE: 8 MIN.

- 1 cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- ⅓ cup hydrogenated vegetable shortening, all-purpose shortening, or lard

You Can "Block Off" Trouble!

If you fear for your child's safety as he walks to and from school, follow the lead of other concerned parents—and organize a Block Parent Plan in your neighborhood

By NORAH SMARIDGE

WHEN LITTLE GIRLS are lost, they are supposed to be terribly frightened. But that wasn't the case with the pony-tailed tot who stood on Mrs. Anita Hills' porch when she went to answer her doorbell.

"I don't know where my house is. Would you tell me, please?" the youngster piped cheerfully.

Mrs. Hills invited her inside, and the little girl continued in a matter-of-fact way:

"We just moved here—and I already know how to get to and from school by myself. But today I guess I forgot. Would you show me?"

Mrs. Hills asked the little girl's name, telephoned the school, and within minutes had the child's address and was walking her home.

The terror of being lost is universal among children. The little girl who stopped at Mrs. Hills' door was no more immune to it than any other youngster. But one factor made a difference—she attended Halcyon School in San Leandro, Calif.

Pupils at Halcyon can stray far from their familiar routes and still find in every block a sign that reads "BP." The letters stand for "block parent," but to a youngster they say: "Here's a friend who can help me."

San Leandro is the home of the Block Parent Plan. It was not specifically designed to assist lost children, but it has been of great help in such instances. The plan was initiated about five years ago, when the parents of Halcyon School pupils were becoming worried about the increase in crimes against small children.

"We need more eyes on the street," one mother observed. "The police can't supervise such a wide area. We ought to take a hand in it ourselves."

So the parents came up with their unusual plan for safeguarding youngsters against injury and molestation. Put into operation with the co-operation of the P. T. A. and the San Leandro police department, it has proved both sane and workable.

Can other communities do what San Leandro has done? Certainly. Many cities already have set up similar plans, so if you and your neighbors feel your area needs a Block Parent Plan, begin by taking these steps:

■ 1. Organize under the sponsorship of the P.T.A. or some other stable, respected neighborhood group.

■ 2. Get the support of your school's principal. Allow him to decide whether your committee or his staff should teach the children the meaning of the Block Parent sign.

■ 3. Get permission to use school files for compiling a list of names, addresses, and phone numbers of all parents of children in your school.

■ 4. Mail letters to each home, explaining the need of a Block Parent Plan in your area, and ask for full co-operation and assistance. Ask those who would like to volunteer to call the chairman of your committee. (Don't let them upset school routine by telephoning there!)

Name of the proposed Block Parent, number of adults living in the house, number of children under 12 living there, the husband's occupation, the hours that he is away from home, and the wife's occupation. Information offered by other sources than the volunteer (for instance, neighbors and teachers) are noted on the card.

This may sound like an excessive amount of checking. But it isn't. People have volunteered who have alcoholics or persons with contagious diseases in their homes. Such volunteers, of course, are rejected.

In San Leandro, all block parents agreed to be fingerprinted and checked for criminal records. Not all communities may wish to go to such lengths. These measures, however, help reassure parents that a home with a Block Parent sign has been thoroughly investigated and found safe.

BLOCK PARENTS themselves must be protected against liability. To this end, the following rules should be explained to them and written on the backs of the signs they display in their windows.

■ 1. Do not transport youngsters in your car. Call the proper person for the child's particular problem.

(a) Lost child under school age, call your police department.

(c) Slightly injured child, send on to school or back to his home.

(d) Seriously injured child, call school or parent.

(e) Critically injured child, call police for aid. They will call an ambulance, if necessary.

■ 2. In case of injury, do not administer first aid except to stop excessive bleeding or restore breathing. Contact parent, school, or police.

■ 3. Do not offer food or beverages to any youngster. Some children are allergic to certain foods.

■ 4. A report must be made to your committee chairman within four hours after the child is helped.

■ 5. When a child has been frightened by a stranger, notify the police and committee chairman immediately.

Once the plan is in action, parents must do their share. They must remind their children continually to go to the Block Parent when in trouble. The Block Parent is not asked to go out and look for children in distress.

When the Block Parent plan is established in a community, parents rest easier. Not only does the plan provide help in dozens of minor mishaps, but it is an efficient way of protecting small children against the many hazards of modern-day living.
